Commuter tries clearing air in train station

Lloyd Levin wants to clear the air at the Arlington Heights Chicago and North Western Ry, station.

Levin, 1733 N. Windsor Dr., is a regular train commuter who is tired of spending his mornings in the small, smoke-filled waiting room. He plans to do something about It.

He will ask Chicago and North Western Ry, officials to ban smoking in the station.

"And if I can't get their cooperation," he said, "I'm hoping the (Arlington Heights) Fire Department will condemn the building as a fire haz-

AND WIIILE Village Pres. James T. Ryan thought Levin's smoking ban proposal "makes sense," he said the station is the jurisdiction of the Chicago and North Western Ry. Tom Judge, a public relations representative for the North Western, agreed that excessive smoke in small, poorly Ventilated stations is a problem, but sald, "If we ban smoking who's going to enforce it? We don't have the manpower to do it." A new station will be built by next summer. Judge said the possibility of banning smoking in the new depot exists, but is unlikely.

Unless Levin can convince the train ompany to agree with him, however, a might have trouble changing the $U.S.\ cigaret\ consumption\ up\ 13\ billion$

The increase in cigaret smoking is expected to continue.

The Agriculture Dept. in its latest report on the tobacco industry, Thursday sald Americans smoked 620 billion cigarets in 1976, almost 13 billion more than 1975 and 84 billion more than 1970 despite efforts to publicize the health hazard in eigaret smoking.

The department said higher incomes and the growth in the adult population account for the increase.

THIS YEAR'S output of chewing tobacco was estimated at $4 million pounds, up from less than 60 million two years ago. The production of snuff tobacco remained unchanged.

Production and consumption of small and large cigars as well as pipe tobacco decreased. Consumption of large cigars fell from 8.2 billion in 1970 to just more than 5.3 billion this

"With further gains expected next year in population and consumer spending, cigaret consumption and output may rise further," the department said. It said the trend toward low-tar, low-nicotine cigarets is expected to continue.

THE REPORT estimated more than 35 trillion cigarets were smoked around the world in 1975, a slight increase on 1974 and a gain of almost 1 trillion more than the 1960-1964 yearly average.

America's eigaret production in 1976 will reach an estimated 700 billion, of which 62 billion were for export. About 16 billion went to U.S. servicemen overseas.

The main importers of American cigarets, in order of quantity, are Belgium-Luxembourg, Hong Kong, Netherland Antilles, Japan, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, Canary Island, Syria, Lebanon and Panama.

Illinois legislators, facing the wrath of hundreds of insurance-gouged physicians, set out more than a year ago to cure the malpractice crisis.

Springfield was the operating site: state representatives and senators the surgeons; the malady was malpractice and the harried family the Illinois State Medical Society.

BY LATE 1975, three major treatments were developed. One set a $500,000 maximum claim limit on malpractice suits, a second established a screening panel of experts to review suits and a third set a two-year statute of limitations between the time an

The prognosis appeared good until earlier this year when the first two provisions of the law were declared unconstitutional. Another sensitive issue developed because State Rep. Gerald W. Shea, D-Riverside, then House majority leader, had sponsored the malpractice legislation at a time when he represented the Illinois State

Medical Society. The legislative move to deal with the malpractice problem has been viewed as a positive effort by some and an unnecessary undertaking by

CIRCUIT COURT Judge David A. Canel, presiding judge of the malpractice division, is among the latter. The legal right to sue over professional negligence is a long standing one, he says. State statutes are not necessary

Attorney Philip Corboy agrees. Springfield's entrance into the malpractice controversy was "not only an over-reaction, it was a non-thinking attempt to emasculate the rights of the people because of successful pressures from the medical community,' he says

Legislators, however, beheve that while government action may not be the only way to solve the problem, it is at least one valid course to pursue.

"I think the legislature is satisfied generally with what it did last fall and is now taking a wait and see atti-tude," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlangton Heights. "I think the legislature did as much as it could with respect to the crisis. I think it is now up to the doctors and insurance companies to clean their own houses, and I think that will solve the malpractice crisis.

STATE SEN. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, sponsored the malpractice legislation in the Illinois Senate. He thinks Springfield's role in the controversy will continue, even though he believes the legislature cannot accomplish everything.

"I envision additional bills being introduced," he says. "I think we'll go back to the drawing board, because I don't think the problem has disappeared and I don't think legislation is the total answer."

Glass says several new proposals have been raised, including limiting an attorney's contingency fees and establishing a patient compensation fund to pay for legitimate claims.

The fund proposal has come from State Rep. Lee A. Daniels, R-Elmhurst, and is patterned after a program in Wisconsin. It would provide for optional contributions by doc-

Robber sentenced to 4 years in jail

Sheldon Jaffe, 421 Norman Ct., Des Plaines, was sentenced to serve four years and a day in prison for attempted armed robbery, robbery and three counts of armed robbery in three Northwest suburban communities. Cook County Circuit Judge Lewis B. Garippo said Jaffe will serve the total of 12 years of sentences concurrently as long as he does not commit any more crimes and he appears in court Jan. 7 to begin serving prison time. Jaffe was arrested Sept. 4, 1971 by Mount Prospect Patrolman Thomas Da-

Jaffe pleaded guilty to committing armed robberies at a 7-Eleven Store in Mount Prospect, a White Hen Pantry in Des Plulnes and a pharmacy in Arlington Heights. He also pleaded guilty to an attempted armed robbery at a Hoffman Estates service station and a robbery at a Mount Prospect service station.

City busing plan voluntary for suburbs, Cronin says

by DIANE GRANAT

Northwest suburban school districts will be involved in a metropolitan desegregation plan only if they volunteer to participate, State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin said Thursday.

Cronin said he will contact suburban districts that might accept minority students in a voluntary busing

The possible desegregation program was discussed by Cronin at a Chicago press conference where he also discussed the unit district controversy in Eik Grove Township and his request for full financing of state aid to schools in 1977.

Cronin said $2 million in assistance for a metropolitan desegregation plan is included in the Illinois Office of Education's proposed budget for 1977-

IF THE STATE board of education aproves the desegregation (inancing, guidelines for a plan probably will be developed by July, state education officials said last week.

Cronin said Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect would be the Northwest areas most receptive to voluntary busing because of declining school enrollments in those towns.

Cronin Thursday also discussed the unit district proposal which would combine Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools and two High School Dist. 214 schools under one school board and administration. The unit district would remove Forest View and Elk Grove high schools from Dist. 214.

Public hearings on the unit district Issue were held in the past two months. County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick must approve or deny the unit district petition by Jan. 10. Cronin then will have 30 days to consider a referendum on the issue.

Cronin declined to say how he would rule on the case if Martwick approves the unit district petition. "I'm supposed to look at the evidence and not prejudge it," he said.

About a dozen of Mrs. Andrews neighbors greeted her at her house 1937 Peregrine Dr., Palatine. Thursday afternoon with signs proclaiming she's reached her 40th Ulrthday.

"Happy 47th from the senior citizens of Palatine," "Smile - You're 40," and "Who's An Old Bag" Mrs. Andrews read as she pulted into her driveway.

"Oh this is terrible!" she laughed. "How could you do this

It was easy, said Joan Lyons. an over-40 neighbor who's been waiting for a chance to get back at Mrs. Andrews for her frequent "over-the-hill" characterization of those who are 40 years or older.

"Mrs. Andrews has always been one of those people who says 'so and so, who's over 40'," sald Mrs. Lyons, "so we decided when she turned 40 we'd make it a memorable occasion."

"She would always say 'I'm going to be 40, but I don't feel like it." Mrs. Lyons added. "How are those of us over 40 supposed to feel. I wonder."

Mrs. Lyons, Randy Thrasher. Mary Anne Kennedy, Barbara Rygiel, Pattl Kulplaski and Joan Knott, all neighbors of Mrs Andrews, agreed that picketing her house would be the Ideal way of spreading the word that Mrs. Andrews finally reached 40. They bundled up themselves and their children and waited with the signs in front of Mrs. Andrews' house until her husband, Buzz, drove her home.

"I was told to be here at 3 p.m. under the threat of my life," Mr. Andrews quipped. A party at Mrs. Lyons house followed the picketing, where Mrs. Andrews was presented with a sympathy card and a black rose.

Complicated tax forms in the mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Income tax forms for 81 million Americans more complicated than ever - are being made ahead of expectations, the Internal Revenue Service said Thursday.

In October, the IRS said the forms for 1976 would be sent in early January, a week to 10 days later than the 1975 forms were mailed. The delay was expected because of substantial changes resulting from the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

But an IRS spokesman said problems in writing regulations and getting the forms printed were not as severe as expected.

"I GUESS WE were conservative in our estimates." he said.

Although most taxpayers have elther received their forms or will receive them in a few days, the spokesman said about 8 million taxpayers will not get forms until the second week in January.

And an estimated 14 million taxpayers who have moved since filing last year will experience delays of a few days because of the normal forwarding difficulties.

IRS IS SENDING out 45 million long forms, the 1040, for higher income workers and those who itemize deductions. An estimated 36 million short forms, 1040A, will be mailed. The 1040A is primarily for students and other part-time and lower income people or those who take standard deductions.

The new law did cause a delay in processing forms for businesses and partnerships, the spokesman said, so most business forms will be mailed in late January.

The tax form will be more complicated because of major changes in the law. The new tax code also requires more extensive record keeping for those with income from stocks, real estate and other investments.

For example, in computing the gain or loss in value of securities for inherstance purposes, their worth on Dec. 31, 1976 will be the standard. Tax payers will also have to use original bills of sale for determining the base worth of other inherited items such as paintings, furniture and houses.

EVEN TAXPAYERS whose forms are prepared by accountants and other specialists will discover that better recordkeeping is required. The new law holds the tax preparer responsible, for the first time, for information filed on the return.

Other changes in the law will climb nate most deductions for a spare room at home used for after-hours work. A few taxpayers, such as doctors, will be able to take that deduc-tion provided the space is set aside for exclusive business purposes such as meeting patients or clients.

And taxpayers who rent vacation homes will be restricted in sheltering income through depreciation and operating expenses if they make personal use of the home for more than 14 days a year.

There are other changes that will be outlined in the information packet that accompanies the 1040 forms.

The forms for taxpayers who itemize will be easier to read because of larger print, but more difficult to full

Dems push $2 billion jobs bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - House Democratic leaders proposed providing at least $2 billion more Thursday to state and local governments for public works projects to create fobs.

Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, the new House Democratic Leader, said a bill for this purpose, supported by President-elect Jimmy Carter, will be introduced on the opening day of the new Congress Tuesday.

Wright said the bill would at least double the existing $2 billion public works jobs bill passed by the last session of Congress over President Ford's

IN PLAINS, Ga., Carter said he had talked by telephone with Wright. He said they had agreed "that a jobs program under a public works category would be advisable," but the exact figure would have to be decided after the president-elect's economic meetings next week.

Carter refused to give further clues on the content of his economic package, expected to be announced after meetings with his Cabinet group and congressional leaders next Thursday

Meanwhile, in another plan to stimulate the economy and reduce the 8 per cent unemployment rate, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., has proposed tax benefits of $5 billion to $10 billion to businesses which employ workers who are unemployed or on welfare, his office said.

Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, favors the tax incentive approach instead of a multibillion tax reduction for all

He told reporters the exact additional amount, possibly as much as $4 billlon, will be worked out at meetings with Carter.

Those talks will deal with the size and makeup of a "package" of stimulus for the economy, Wright said, and the public works jobs would be only

Stimulus packages up to $30 billion have been proposed, most including a combination of tax cuts and various kinds of job programs.

THE EXISTING $2 billion public works program ran into new controversy this week. The U.S. Conference of Mayors charged that when the Ford administration distributed the funds last week not enough went to big cities with high unemployment and too much went to small communites with less need.

Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N J., chair-man of the House public works subcommittee in charge of the program, said some of this criticism is "legitimate" and he will seek changes in the law for any new money to be handed

In an effort to put money into the economy quickly, and to deal with unemployment, the program is limited to projects which localities have far enough along in planning so they cen begin within 90 days.

Wright said Carter has told him he supports the new bill, and that it also has backing from other House Demoeratic leaders and key Republicans on the House Public Works Committee

In vetoing the original bill, Ford said the program would create fewer jobs then claimed, would do so too late and would add to inflation.

16 hospitalized with paralysis

Health officials in Illinois Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a form of temporara paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu immumiration shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said

Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the flu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

Remove civil service protection

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection. Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Thursday. A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to Join him in ordering the employes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial refesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not incolve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require court approval

Suspect in bombing released

Police, citing lack of evidence, Thursday released their prime suspect in the car-bombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office. Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson, said the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 21 hours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence on which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickerson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing. William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 a m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M. Marshall ordered the release of almost $40 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday, The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment and a third of the more than $03 milhon impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and

Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The suit was later transferred to Chicago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to amounce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor. Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, issued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to slate candidates for the general election

Klein said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials" "We'll fight achieve any more back-room deals," he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayer.

Explosives find sparks manhunt

The FBI began a nationwide search Thursday for a 24-year-old man who rented an apartment where Chicago police last month found bomb-making equipment believed to belong to the FALN, a Puerto Rican nationalist group. The FBI Wednesday issued a federal warrant for the arrest of Carlos Albert Torres for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and it directed FBI offices throughout the country to conduct an intensive manhunt for him.

Torres, wanted by police for violating federal arms laws, apparently fied Chicago after police on Nov. 3 found 211 sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, wires and explosive chemicals in the West Side apartment, Carl Shupe, supervisor of terrorist bombing activities for the FBI's Chicago office, said

Urlacher moved to county jail

Thomas Urlacher, the only link police have to the whereabouts of mis-sing Mount Prospect resident Barbara Glueckert, has been transferred to Cook County Jail after a second day of interrogation Thursday failed to gather information.

Urlacher, 24, of Algonquin Shores. refused to speak with Kane County Sheriff's officials and representatives of the Kane County state's attorney's office during lengthy interviews with law enforcement personnel Thursday.

Kane County officials withdrew their charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against Urlacher, who was transferred to Cook County Jail "where charges of contributing to the delinquency of a misnokesman said.

NO REASON has been given for the dropped charges, which apparently were used to bring Urlacher into Kane County Wednesday night following a full day of interviews at the Mount Prospect Police Dept.

Kane County authorities failed to bring new charges against Urlacher as Cook County Assistant State's Atty. Terry Sullivan said they might Wednesday night.

Urlacher needs only $1,000 to post bail on a $10,000 band for the contributing to the delinquency of a minor charge in Mount Prospect.

James H. Schurr, angered by what he calls "embarrassing" playing field conditions, will seek a place on the Arlington Heights Park Board in Schurr, 36, of 1307 White Oak St., is considering running with two other residents, whose names he would not disclose, in an effort to sweep all three open seats.

THE TERMS OF Pres. Lloyd W. Meyer, Robert P. Rohleder and Robert J. Throckmorton expire next year. So far, Meyer is the only commissioner to announce a reelection bid.

The park district isn't just trees and it isn't just grass," Schurr said. "It's physical education and teaching kids sportsmanshin.

'We're still using (baseball) bases with steel spikes, which could kill a kid who slides into them," he said, and the fields are like concrete. Maintenance of facilities is poor compared to other communities and I'm rather upset at the way our children are equipped with uniforms and equipment. They look like hobos compared to the uniforms of other kids."

Schurr said the park board needs more members who have been involved in athletics and "not just sat behind a desk,"

"I'm not criticising the people who have been on the board in the past," he said. "I just want to see that our kids get what they deserve.

"It doesn't make sense that we can turn around and spend money to put in more trees and lights yet we can't even maintain our baseball dia mands.

An added voice for local Dems

have referred to their suburban counterparts as representatives of the "country towns."

The label was traditional and, while Republicans generally treated the suburbs with respect because they represented the party's power base, Cook County Democrats often behaved as though the suburbs were still primarily inhabited by cows and cornfields.

As the county Democratic Party goes through the transition following the death of Richard J. Daley, long-time chairman of the party central contmattee, it appears that suburban-Democrats have finally taken some steps toward full recognition in party circles.

It is true that suburban Democratic committeemen still represent just 25 per cent of the votes on the party's central comnuttee, because of the larger number of Democratic voters in

It is also true that County Board Pres. George Dunne probably could have been elected county chairman Wednesday without suburban support.

However, the fact that Dunne, who as a county-wide officeholder has had to run for office in the suburbs as well as the city, found it advantageous to appear before the caucus of suburban committeemen Monday is a mark of his awareness of the potential importance of the suburbs to the narty.

Dunne's awareness of the suburbs was also apparent Wednesday when, in his first act as county chairman, he named a 40-member executive committee with 15 suburban committeemen as members. The membership on the committee is split in a ratio of five city to three suburhan members, the ratio requested by suburban committeemen.

Whether Dunne will fullfill his promise to give suburban com-

For years, Chicago politicians mitteemen a greater voice in party affairs - including a party vice chairman from the suburbs - remains to be seen. There is the possibility that now that he is elected he will focus his ambition on becoming Chicago's mayor. When he wore both hats, as mayor and county party chief, Richard Daley virtually wrote off the suburbs.

> To ensure Dunne and other party leaders remember the suburbs, the suburban committeemen must maintain the unity they showed this week when they held their caucus. That unity showed immediate signs of strain Wednesday when they were unable to elect a chairman of their own group.

Their Monday meeting was a nearly imprecedented event because many long-anonymous suburban Democrats gathered to hear and question men competing for party leadership.

The first meeting also was a refreshing development because it was open to public and press. something that has been rare for Democratic Party meetings at which substantive issues are discussed.

During the last months of Mayor Daley's tenure as party chairman, local Democratic organizations were hit by divisive fights which were spawned by Chicago's City Hall, Democratic Clubs in Schaumburg and Palatine townships vowed their support of Daley and began competing with the established township organizations, State Rep Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, a legislator who often acted independently of the Daley-led bloc in Springfield, found herself facing an election challenge from her own party.

That kind of fratricidal infighting has not benefited the Democratic Party. The suburban committeemen should remind Dunne of that fact - and make sure he remembers the suburbs are no longer "country

Have a safe New Year

Sure, you've heard it all before. On New Year's Eve and every other night of the year it's a bad idea to drink and drive.

But, before you skip over the rest of this editorial because you've heard the message take some time to think about it.

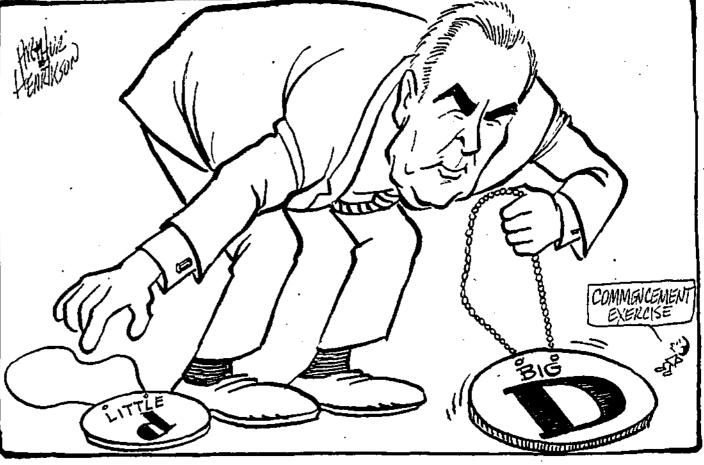

During the last New Year's holiday, 402 persons were killed on the nation's highways and New Year's Eve being what it is in this country, it is a safe bet that many of them had been drinking.

The latest advertising campaign dealing with drunk drivers is aimed not at the drinker. but at the drinker's friends. "Friends don't let friends drive drunk," they say, And on New Year's Eve that's especially good advice.

If you're going to be the host tonight, a role many adopt because it means they don't have to drive, you can contribute to highway safety. Don't mix "doubles" to liven up the party. Make coffee available. And, please, for all our sakes, don't let the party-goers who are past their limits drive home. Offer your spare room, or your sofa, or even your floor. Call a cab. in short, be responsible.

And if you're a party-goer, take some responsibility for yourself. Being seriously injured or killed in an auto accident is a good way to wreck the New Year. So be extra cautious, even over-cautious.

An exclusive interview with 1977

by TOM TIEDE A commentary

WASHINGTON - With great good fortune I have located 1977. It has been engaged in transition activities with 1976 and, on discovery, agreed to the following exclusive interview:

Q. Sir, what have you learned so far about your duties?

A. Well, my man, I've learned all of the cliches, bromides, platitudes and hoary jingoisms. For instance: We face perilous times.

Q. How can you say that? A. Without fear of contradiction.

Q. I SEE. You are pessimistic?

A. As we ring in a new year, I feel we are at the crossroads of world history. So to speak. We are standing either on the threshold of a new age, or the precipice of untold despair.

Q. I agree. It could go either way. A. Please! I'm the expert on empty

Q. Sorry. I was just trying to be helpful.

A. It's all right. I understand. You have a good attitude, my man, and we'll need that next year. Life is a veil of tears.

Q. HOW DO YOU assess the universal attitude?

A. In discussing that I must separate individual attitudes from institutional attitudes. The little people are geatle and kind and trustworthy. It is government and corporations. that worry me. Q. How so?

A. The powers-that-be have their priorities asunder. It is time that kind of a disaster.

Additionally, I would like to see the letter system applied to artistic as well as morality ratings. Those stars just don't give you adequate warning

MOVIE CRITICS should have no trouble working up a more meaningful set of symbols. Here are a few categories that might be included:

SP - Subtle plot. Film has murky story line that never quite spells out who is doing what to whom and why. The effect is similar to driving in a rainstorm with a broken windshield

HM - Hidden meaning. What you see is not what you get. Rather, the story unfolds on two levels, the second of which is merely implied and leaves the viewer feeling that he must have missed something when he went out for popcorn.

LE - Loose ends. Film ends with-out a firm resolution of the situation, leaving viewers to draw their own conclusions as to what happens next. This frequently leads to family arguments that may include V. L or both

Protect family, keep will up to date

One of the most unique and precious legal rights we enjoy in America is the ability to leave our accumulated wealth to whomever we choose. If our last wishes are prepared in accordance with the law, then those last wishes will be given every possible protection of the law.

if we choose not to take advantage of this legal right, the state in which we live will determine who gets what, regardless of whether we would have wanted it that way.

It seems strange that so few of us take the simple steps to visit an altorney to have a will prepared. Even stranger is the fact that once a will has been prepared, even fewer of us will follow through every five years or so to be sure the will or other estate planning documents are still in accord with our wishes, with our changed circumstances and with any changes that may have occurred in the law liself.

Aside from possibly wanting to amend who gets how much, there are a number of other circumstances which could strongly suggest that a will be reviewed and appropriate changes made, These circumstances include:

by Robert S. Rosefsky

• Moving to a new state, particularly if you go from a community property state to one that is not and vice versa. The respective laws between these kinds of states can have a drastically different effect on the distribution of many estates.

There may be other respects in which your old will does not jibe with the requirements of the law in your new state. These legal differences might not invalidate your old will, but they could cause unwanted problems in executing your instructions.

 The 1976 Tax Reform Law made drastic revisions in the federal taxation of estates. Many estates can now substantially reduce the possible bite by taking advantage of the enlarged marital deduction.

Under the old law, up to one-half of the adjusted gross estate could pass to a surviving spouse and escape taxation in the estate of the deceased. The new law permits a marital deduction of as much as $250,000 for estates of up to $500,000 in value (and one-half of the estate where the value exceeds $500,000). If you want to take advantage of this increased deduction, adjustments may have to be made to your present will. If you don't make the necessary adjustments, you may not reap the benefits, which could amount to a great deal of money.

Remember that unless you take the steps to make the changes, your old will prevails. Thinking about it desert make it happen doesn't make it happen.

Cemetery workers may return to work

Members of Local 106 of the Cemetery Workers Union reportedly will be back on the job today while talks continue to end the strike at 26 cemeteries.

Earher in the day, two Jewish organizations filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court to force the workers to accept burials of Jews despite the strike and lockout. The suits, filed by the Chicago Rabbinical Council and the Council of Traditional Synagogues, asks for an Injunction to order the workers and cemeteries to stop "refusing to admit funerals and refusing to accept the remains of Jewish decedents."

The case was assigned to Judge Nathan M. Cohen.

Postal rate hike method criticized

The National Assn. of Greeting Card Publishers is attacking the legality of the method used by the Postal Rate Commission to raise the first-class postal rate to 13 cents. The association is using the same argument against the 13-cent rate that it used to win a court ruling this week that a previous increase in mail rates had been put into effect illegally. The decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals on the previous increase raises the possibility that the 13-cent rate may be lowered and rates for other types of mail may be increased. A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service, asked if current rates are to be adjusted to conform with the court ruling, said Thursday, "We are currently studying the decision."

Unit alleges oil price conspiracy

The Energy Action Committee, a public interest group, Thursday urged the Justice Dept. to investigate the possibility that the oil industry is illegally conspiring to weaken the impact of Saudi Arabia's moderate oil price increase. The committee told Atty. Gen. Edward Levi there are indications the big oil companies are not responding to Saudi Arabia's offer to hold a Jan. 1 price fige to 5 per cent, and to boost production rather than go along with the majority of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' decision to increase oil prices by 10 per cent.

Inland Steel to reduce pollution

The Inland Steel Co., and the Environmental Protection Agency agreed Thursday to an offset plan designed to reduce soot pollution by two-thirds by 1991 while permitting expansion of steel making facilities. The consent agreement was contained in six enforcement orders signed by EPA and Inland officials covering the firm's Indiana Harbor Works in East Chicago, Ind. "This new (offset) policy gives us tremendous leverage outside of the courts to force air polluters to clean up the air while at the same time it allows them to increase plant operations," said David Kee, chief of EPA's Region 5 air enforcement branch.

Great Soda Pop War bubbles up

Shoppers at markets and stores in eastern Illinois near Mattoon loaded up on popular soft drinks Thursday, priced at only 49 cents for an eight-pack of 16-ounce bottles. If that weren't enough, one bottler ran newspaper advertisements with coupons good for 23 cents off on each purchase. That cut the price on eight half-quart bottles to 24 cents. The Great Soda Pop War began Dec. 20 when Coca-Cola and Pepsi Cola started lowering costs from $1.29 per cight-pack. Pepsi went to 99 cents. Coke countered with 79. The 49 cent price prevailed Thursday for both brands. Some un-colas were following along.

Dow Jones up 4.16 as prices rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors, encouraged by the economy's improving outlook, drove prices higher Thursday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange, but the Dow Jones industrial average failed to crack the 1,000 level again.

The Dow linished with a gain of 4.16 to 999.09 after having been ahead about six points to 1,000-plus during the afternoon. It lost 5.15 points Wednesday, falling for the 12th time this year to hold above 1,000 because of profit taking.

Analysts said the Commerce Dept.'s report that retail sales fell 0.4 per cent last week, the tailend of Christmas selling season, may have triggered some late profit taking. The government however, said department store sales were 32 per cent ahead of a year ago.

Miami hotel strike spreads

A strike by malds, bartenders, waiters and bellmen against six of Miami Beach's most famous hotels was extended Thursday to Miami's two largest hotels - the Dupont Plaza and Four Ambassadors. The Ohio State University football team, in town for the Orange Bowl game, is being quartered at the Four Ambassadors and union officials said nearly 200 of that hotel's employes walked

Ford views flu program

President Ford said Thursday it was "probably a wise decision" to halt swine flu inoculations since evidence was found linking the vaccinations with paralysis, but he defended his initial order launching the program. "We had some problems, but we've been lucky that we didn't end up with an epidemic (of swine flu)," Ford said, offering his first views on the program since federal health officials suspended inoculations two weeks ago and decided Wednesday not to resume them.

On his original decision in October ordering the $135 million program, the President said: "I think we made the right decision at the time, because there was the unanimous approval by all of the technical people and the medical profession (that) we should . have proceeded. I'm thankful that some 30 per cent of the people have been inoculated. That would not be sufficient if we had an influenza epidemic."

Help fight terrorism: Kelley

FBI Director Clarence Kelley asked Americans Thursday to help law enforcement agents fight terrorism, warning that "alien facare using the United States as a "battleground for slaughter." In a press release reviewing domestic terrorism from Jan. 1, 1975 through June, 1975, Kelley said: "In addition to our homegrown terrorists, we Americans are reluctant hosts to small, warring, allen factions who seem quite willing to turn areas of our country into staging area for violence elsewhere or battlegrounds for slaughter here.

Soviet 'answer' to Tomahawk

The Soviet Union already may have its "answer" to America's Tomahawk missile-a land, sea or air missile that can find its way over the Earth's "fingerprints" and deliver its payload within yards of targets nearly 2,000 miles away, a study said Thursday. The new edition of Jane's Weapon Systems said the Soviet Union already may "have on the stocks a weapon with the capabilities of the American Tomahawk missile."

If the Soviets have such a weapon being developed, Jane's said it could upset the delicate balance of weaponry under discussion in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). The Tomahawk is one of the most advanced missiles in the U.S. arsenal.

Some inmates continue fast

A handful of U. S., Canadian and Latin prisoners in Mexican jalis for narcotic charges Thursday refused to abandon their 26day-old hunger strike, vowing to continue their fast "until we're out of this prison." "We are not abandoning the strike. We're going to go on until we're out of this prison," Fred Ostrikoff, 42, of Vancouver, Canada, told United Press International.

A majority of the 500 prisoners in Mexican jails Wednesday tearfully halted the strike which began Dec. 4 to force the Mexican government into passing a parole bill. A spokeswoman for the disheartened prisoners sald they started eating lightly Wednesday on hearing there was "no chance" the Mexican congress would enact parole legislation for drug offenders this session, which ends

Chinese Army ordered to quell riot in Paoting

HONG KONG (UPD) - Chairman Hua Kuo-feng called out the army to put down a rebellion in Paoting led by followers of disgraced Mmc. Mao-Tsetunngand three other members of the Shaidhal mafia, reports from Peking said Thursday.

The reports said there were "serious disturbances" in Paoting, a former provincial capital about 100 miles south of Peking and that the rebellion there had become a threat to the Chinese capital.

The reports said organized bands raided ammunition depots, established a "rebet rule," and looted, robbed banks, grain stores and shops, raped women, hijacked military vehicles and blew up factories.

THE BACKERS of Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, also sabotaged telecommunications and railway lines, arbitrarily arrested their opponents and built secret arms caches with stolen or manufactured explosives, the reports said.

Paoting, with an estimated 500,000 people, used to be the capital of the province of Hopeh and lies on the important north-south railway line. It has been in a virtual state of emergency for many months, according to reports reaching here.

This dispatch was based on reports from Peking by the German news agency DPA, the Japanese news agency Kyodo and London and Sydney newspapers with correspondents in

The current struggle between rival supporters of Chairman Hua and the "gang of four" has inspired a spate of criminal activity and provided the opportunity to settle old scores bullt up in the 10 years since the Cultural Revolution, the reports said.

Surgery threatened by blood shortage

Area hospitals are being notified that they may have to postpone some elective surgery in the next 10 days to two weeks because of an areawide shortage of blood.

Dan Connor, director of the North Suburban Blood Center, Northbrook, said Thursday be is preparing to alert the 10 hospitals supplied by the blood bank to the shortage.

AWARDS, Esther Hoffman (Barbra Streisand) is interrupted by her slightly drunken husband (Kris Kristofferson) in a scene from "A Star Is Born." Tony Orlando as an award presenter looks on.

'A Star Is Born'

Tarnished by all its troubles

by GENIE CAMPBELL

(A review)

No doubt "A Star Is Born" will be a box office success, but people are going to see it for all the wrong reasons.

They've been saturated with the squabbles and the fights, the firings and the continual changes in script and musical numbers that preceded the film's Christmas Day opening,

They are being driven to the theaters primarily by curlosity. Somewhat apprehensive of being taken, they're more afraid of being left out.

Miraculously, considering the undercurrent of strife that continually marked its making, "A Star Is Born" Isn't all that bad. Allowing Jon Peters, Barbra Strelsand's lover-hairdresser, to produce this movie didn't hurt it.

BUT THE SAD part is, "A Star Is Born" could have been great. The talent hired - songwriters and production crew in addition to the dual billing of Kristofferson-Streisand - was enough, if propcrly managed, to make this romantle remake the movie of the year. It will be remembered, I'm sure, but mainly for all the bad press it manufactured.

Barbra dominates every scene.

It's what she wanted. As executive producer she was free to call all the shots.

It makes for a one-sided, ineffective love story. There is little depth of emotion. Thank goodness Kristofferson already has a big following. His passive, sexy looks were cast in the lead roles in 1953. IN THIS LATEST attempt, the emphasis is on the rock scene, with Kristofferson, the lead singer of a rock group, and Streisand, a powerful ballad singer he discovers in a small nightclub. She's a member of an all-female trio

Album from the movie is also disappointing

go a long way. Still his character remains relatively undeveloped. And it shows, leaving a gaping hole in the picture.

"A Star Is Born" is a contemporary story of two superstars, one on her way up, the other plummeting to the bottom by his own volition. It was first filmed in 1931. Fredric March and Janet Gaynor teamed up in 1937, and Judy Garland and James Mason billed as the Oreos. The other two in the group are black,

As the movie opens, Kristofferson is already a wreck. He's practically destroyed himself with booze and drugs to the point where he can hardly perform.

Kristofferson is pictured either reflecting upon himself and his life or punching out people. Success has messed him up. But how? He laments he's on the road too much. That's all we're ever

Barbra plays the same kind of kinky, spontaneous character that made her so appealing in "Funny Girl." Only she doesn't appear quite so innocent as the role sug-

PART OF THE problem is her wardrobe. While everything she wears, and she never wears the same thing twice, is indeed striking, her outfits are much more sophisticated than her character.

And, am I the only one who wondered why she wore a knit cap to a rock concert on a sunny day when everybody else wore tank tops? She had to be hot.

Also, in the beginning she seemed to be doing too well on her own without Kristofferson. So what was the big attraction? I'm sure Kristofferson thought the same throughout the making of

But Streisand belts out her numbers like the pro she is. Highlighted is a new song which she helped write, "Lost Inside of You." The music seems to smooth over the lack of feeling in the film, though once again Kristofferson got the short end of the deal. He hardly sings at all. Or maybe he did and she cut it out.

Film critics name year's favorites

The Los Angeles Film Critics Association - not to be confused with the prestiglous New York film critics - has jumped the gun on its awards for 1976, a bumper year for quality films.

The 19-member association couldn't make up its collective mind about the best picture of the year and settled for a tie between "Rocky" and "Network."

It is probably the first such announcement of the season and perhaps even a harbinger of winners at Academy Award time.

Los Angeles reviewers, clearly more indecisive than their New York counterparts, voted a tie last year as well with "Dog Day Afternoon" and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

In contention this year were "All The President's Men." "A Star Is Born," "Taxi Driver," "Bound for Glory" and "Carrie."

NEVER SERIOUSLY considered were "Marathon Man," "The Seven-Per-Cent Solution," and "The Omen."

A plethora of year-end films, fired at Southern California screens to qualify for this year's Oscars, were considered and given short shrift. Among them: "King Kong." "Nickelodeon," "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" and "Voyage of the Damned."

Not infrequently, critics and moviegoers in general fall to see eye to eye on the merits of movies. The public is much more in tune with the selections of the Motion Picture Academy.

Commonly, it is the big box office hits which attract academy votes.

Just as commonly, critics are inclined to embrace box office disasters, thus making a distinction between the preferences of the masses and their own educated tastes.

"One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest" last year and the two pictures which tied this year would seem to indicate a diminution of the abyss between critical values and those of the great un-

STILL, CITICS generally prefer the small, low-budget message films with obscure actors to the multimillion dollar spectaculars full of "Movie Stars."

The multitudes go to movies to be entertained. The critic seeks social comment. The mob wants action. The critics want mean-

Ofttimes it is an affront to the critics when a picture that should be over the heads of the madding crowd succeeds at the box For the most part the critics' role in encouraging or discouraging people from seeing a movie is negligible. "Love Story" became one of the top five, all-time box office champs despite murderous reviews. So did "The Sound of Music." Other pictures failed to draw flies after critical raves. Be that as it may, the local critics gave this year's best acting awards to a pair of out-of-towners. Robert De Niro, who makes his home in New York, won their vote as the best actor for his performance as the psychotic cabbie in "Taxl Driver." Liv Ullmann, whose home is in Norway, was deemed best actress of the year for her bravura role as the suicidal psychiatrist in "Face to Face."

LAST YEAR Jack Nicholson was their favorite for "Cuckoo's Nest" and Florinda Bolkan in "A Brief Vacation." The choice of Bolkan — of whom the public has never heard — was a truly inspired bit of critical snobbery albeit perhaps merited.

"Face to Face," directed by Ingmar Bergman - the Swede who enjoys universal critical adoration but who bores the public out of its gourd - won the best foreign film of the year award.

Beloved though the expatriate Swede may be, however, he did not win the critics' vote for best director. That honor went to Sidney Lumet for "Network," a scathing indictment of television. Anything that buries television can't be all bad to movie critics.

New faces dominated '76 pop music

by BRUCE MEYER

Popular music's year of 1976 was both framed and punctuated by the well-publicized activities of the "old guard," the big events centering on superstars established for a decade and more.

But such backward-looking appearances were decelving. For the first time in a half dozen years, pop music's main action was provided largely by new faces with fresh, if not revolutionary

And perhaps most significant of all 1976 was the year rock 'n' roll helped put a man in the White House.

Benefit rock concerts by the Aliman Brothers, Lynyrd Skynyrd, Charlle Daniels and other top southern bands gave candidate Jimmy Carter's campaign more than one crucial financial boost. Some observers say Carter never could have won the Democratic nomination without that money. As a result, Daniels, a hard-drinkin', tobacco-chewin' 300-pound country rocker from the hills of Tennessee, will be playing at the inauguration. And the attitude of official Washington toward both rock and its legions of fans seems certain to change. HAVING EMERGED from his cocoon in 1975, Bob Dylan went three-ring circus. Dylan's Rolling Thunder Revue came out of New England and snowballed through dozens of one-night stands across more than half the country. It operated outside the usual scheduling and logistical restrictions of major rock tours and seemingly got most of its energy on during the past year to present the world's first rock 'n' roll

directly from Dylan and his new-found enthsiasm for the roar of the crowd. Dylan likewise played a key role in the year's capping event, the band's farewell live performance in San Francisco, which brought more major stars together on a single stage than any event since George Harrison's historic benefit for Bangladesh.

There were other notable events during the year, as well, ranging from Willie Nelson's trouble-plagued Picnic in Texas to the release, after two years of waiting, of Stevie Wonder's "Songs In The Key Of Life," an album that apparently satisfied nearly everyone that Stevie is pop music's reigning king and main in-

YET ALL THE big events were just icing on 1976's musical cake. For most of the nation's record buyers and radio listeners, the real news was that a whole new generation of fine young musicians was coming out of the wings and into the spotlight, while others who had been struggling for years finally put together the right combination.

Boston, the brainchild of a hotshot young engineer named Tom Scholz who worked for Polaroid by dey and perfected his music by night, was the year's No. 1 phenomenon in groups. Boston's first album took the radio alrwaves by storm, aboard a superb single, "More Than A Feeling."

Other important new groups turned up as well, showing and frequently cashing in on devious star potential. Heart, a Scattlebased group led by sisters Ann and Nancy Wilson, came up with a million-selling debut album, "Dreamboat Annie." Patti Smith, a sneering punk poet from New York, put together a harsh, raunchy band that turned her into an instant cult heroine. Thin Lizzy, a hard-driving boogle band with roots in the Dublin pub scene, provided the year's best summertime single, "The Boys Are Back In Town," and a solid, intelligent album, "Jailbreak.

AFTER WORKING long and hard on his solo career, former humble Pleman Peter Frampton finally broke loose with "Frampton Comes Alive," an album that remained at the top of the sales charts longer than any other in history. And Bob Seger, Detroit's favorite underrated rock 'n' roller, followed up his own live LP success by turning out "Night Moves," one of the best collections

On the nation's dance floors, super-funk remained king, but there were signs that, as with most such trendy forms of pop, the quality of disco music was evolving for the better, apparently without losing any of the fun. K. C. and the Sunshine Band, The Sylvers, the resurgent Bee Gees, The Tramps - all of them contributed to retaining the boogle while adding a welcome dash of wit to the disco scene.

Reggae, Jamaica's answer to disco, acid rock and protest folk all rolled into one, came on strong aboard major tours and increasingly popular records from Bob Marley and The Wailers, Jimmy Cliff, Peter Tosh and others, But it remains to be seen whether music so deeply rooted in an alien island culture can win a broad-based mass popularity in the United States.

THE OLD-FASHIONED funky bar band made a big comeback in 1976, perhaps providing a glimpse of things to come in the richly-

Queen built a huge following with its tongue-in-cheek, classically influenced orchestral sound, while poet Rod Taylor changed his name to Roderick Falconer and attracted attention with a powerful, affecting album, "New Nation."

There was a lot more, of course - scores of new singer-songwriters, dozens of good albums, hundreds of bad ones.

But at the end of a good year for music, there's more good news: the prospects for 1977 look even better.

CB radio song changes composer's way of life

by PAULA SCHWED

The music industry predicted only a few owners of citizens band radio rigs would listen to "Convoy," a song C. W. McCall recorded about some 1,000 truckers crashing through roadblocks, tollgates and police barricades.

Boy, were they ever wrong," says McCall with a laugh, "It's just been an overwhelming success, to put it miletly. But truckers certainly did help make the song a hit." For the ole "Rubber Duck," McCall's CB handle, the hit single has led to whole albums and lucrative commercials. A movie is also in the

THE FORMER advertising executive says he originally wrote the song to entertain truckers with a fantasy of a vast and powerful CB network no one could stop. But "Convoy" also caught on with listeners who did not have "eare" (citizens band radios).

"Even non-CBers liked the rebel at-mosphere of bashing through all the symbols and institutions, as well as the toll gates," he said. "Let's face it, everyone got caught up in hating the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit and the fun of getting around it."

McCall, ever aware of marketing trends and timing, says the release date of "Convoy" was another reason for its astounding success.

"It came out just before Christmas and just when people were starting to get into CB. You'd be surprised what a difference that makes."

Another factor in the song's success and the parallel success of CB, according to McCall, was the jargon laced through the lyrics of "Convoy."

"Everyone likes slang and shortcuts and new ways to say things and that's what the song was all about. And that's certainly what CB is all about. It's much easier to use normal words, but numbers and nicknames and 'negatori' — that's the fun of it."

McCALL SAYS HIS own interest in the CB "slanguage" grew out of a practical necessity. "I do a lot of four-wheeling in jeep. It's rough country when you're all alone. So I got interested in being able to communicate wity these people and that's when I caught onto the code.

McCall disputes the popular idea that CB started as a time-killer for lonely truck drivers.

"They started using them during strikes to communicate with each other and they pulled off some major coups that way. And let's face it, that double-nickel (55) speed limit is not economical for truckers. They have to deliver the goods faster than that, and so CB is necessary equipment for those guys." The record company that sponsored McCall's first efforts admitted the Jargon made a funny record, but a year ago they predicted "Convoy" would only get played by what McCall calls

"truck-driving" radio stations.
THE SINGLE zoomed to the top of the country and pop charts. Since then, McCall has cut three more albums, toured more cities than he cares to remember and has started making commercials for CB equipment. He begins work with Sam Peckinpah in March on a movie version of the song.

"Manufacturers of CB gear tell me at trade shows around the country that they got a big jump in sales when the song came out. It definitely got a lot of people interested in buying their own CBs. I can't take all the credit, but 'Convoy' had a lot to do with it."

McCall does not answer quickly when asked if the CB craze is just a flash in the pan. His response is finally "no way," although McCall admits he once thought he'd gotten all the song material he could out of the sub-

"I thought I'd covered it, but the audiences just won't let it die. So, I've got three CB songs on my new album, and I guess we'll find out if the interest will hold. I think CB is here to stay.

Music from 'A Star Is Born' makes disappointing album

by TOM VON MALDER

The Barbra Strelsand-Kris Kristofferson remake of "A Star Is Born" is being touted as the movie musical of the year, but the music itself - available on Columbia Records - is far less exciting than promised. (The list price is very high, $0.98.1.

The album is disappointing even though many top songwriters and arrangers contributed to it. Part of the problem was the control exercised in the movie by Streisand and her lover, former hairdresser Jon Peters.

Streisand's first choice for the film's musical supervisor was Rupert Holmes, a relatively new songwriter whose work she adores. She recorded a few of his sones on her most recent album.

But there was a falling out, and Holmes was replaced by veteran Paul Williams, who has written hits for Three Dog Night, Helen Reddy and others, while developing a strong singing career of his own.

With all the disagreements and lastminute changes, the music lost its un-

ONLY TWO HOLMES songs remain, "Queen Bee," with its heavy dose of soul, and "Everyghing," beautiful type of ballad with which Strelsand has always been associated. Williams cowrote "Everything," which has the album's best lyrics, including the rhyming of cello, Othello and yellow.

Both of the Holmes songs are sung by Streisand, as indeed is most of the album. Kristofferson was granted only three solos - two very weak songs and a good "Crippled Crow" from 1972 - and two duets which Streisand dominates.

The album's high point is the finale, a combination of "With One More Look At You" and "Watch Closely Now" sung by Strelsand. The selection begins softly, gets teary and then picks up with a solid rock wallop at the end. It is followed by a reprise of the "Love Theme" (Evergreen), cowritten by Strelsand and sung as a duet, which closes with a kiss.

KRISTOFFERSON, in many of his numbers is backed by a 12-man rock group, called The Speedway. Streisand's backup is The Oreos, made up of talented Clydie King and Venetta Fields, who've been infusing soul into records for years. In addition to Holmes, Williams and musical conductor Kenny Ascher, alburn credits go to Leon Russell and a trio composed of Kenny Loggins and Alan and Marilyn Bergman.

Among the arrangers are Ascher, Roger Kellaway, Tom Scott, Jim Pankow of Chicago and Pat Williams.

Several of the selections were recorded live in special concerts. These include "The Woman in the Moon," a good Williams-Ascher song. in which Streisand starts out hesitantly and with a cough signifying in the movie her first performance before a large rock, rather than night-club, audiences. "Woman in The Moon" and the finale are the two highlights of the album.

It's hard to knock a kid's show

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Revivals and remakes are popular of late. Even Walt Disney Studios is getting into the act by releasing a sequel to its 1959 "Shaggy Dog" hit.

This new one is "The Shaggy D A." and it combines the old switcheroo act — man to dog and back again — with an upright citizen's pledge to fight crime and corruption.

Walt Disney is, well . . . just Walt Disney. To parents looking for a boliday show for their kids, this is it. And I don't blame them

Unfortunately "The Shaggy D A" is somewhat a letdown. It is neither as ingenious nor as well-scripted as Disney films in the past, particularly when compared to the studio's last big one, "Treasure of Matecumbe," a mystery-adventure tale that had adults and children alike sitting on the edge of their seats.

THE AFTERNOON I saw "The Shaggy DA.," even the children seemed a bit restless.

Wilby Daniels (Dean Jones), his wife (Suzanne Pleshette) and son (Shane Sinutke) come home one day to find their home has been completely cleaned out by robbers. That night, while they sleep on the floor, even their clothes are taken.

That does it Dean Jones deck...s to run for district attorney and clean up the graft and corruption in the town. There is a rumor that a big-name thlef is linked to a big-name politi-

It still has the power to change some men into shaggy dogs. And Wilby is

JUST BEFORE going on television to make a plea for votes, Wilby begins growing long white hair and soon turns into a shaggy dog - much like Elwood, the ice cream vendor's constant companion.

And that causes all sorts of problems too. When Wilby turns into a dog, Elwood disappears. Tim Conway as the vendor, miskates Wilby in his shaggy dog disguise for his own dog. When he hears Wilby talk, he's ready to go into show business.

There is a lot of talent assembled in this picture. Besides Conway, Jones and Pleshette, both Joanne Worley and Keenan Wynn are featured. And young Shane Sinutke steals the show much of the time.

The best scenes in the movie include a pie-throwing melee that particularly seems to delight the kids. That kind of slapstick will never grow

AND WHILE IN his shaggy stage. Jones is taken to the pound where a gang of dogs are plotting a breakout. One basset hound sings the blues. He's next in line for the gas chamber.

The doctor says by lawrence f. Lamb, M.D.

Ulcer diet depends a lot on severity

I have a 16-year-old son who has peptic ulcers. He takes Maalox and that's all the doctor has prescribed for him. Will you please tell me some of the foods that he can safely eat? Is mlik all right? Someone told me to let him drink goat's milk. He just suffered a had attack: Is there something else to take to ease the severe pain?

What one can and can't eat if he has an ulcer is still a subject of controversy. Some doctors don't think there is any reason why a person with an ulcer can't eat almost anything. Others recommend a bland diet of soft foods

In severe cases a constant drip of milk and cream with other medicines to neutralize the acid digestive juice is used. The treatment depends a lot on how severe the symptoms are and if the

To give you more information about ulcers and how they are treated I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers -Duodenal, Stomach, Others who want this Information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019,

There is no advantage in using goat's milk as opposed to cow's milk in the presence of an ulcer. I think it is a good plan to eliminate any foods that seem to increase the pain; avoid the spices and the acid foods such as fruit juice. Otherwise most ulcer patients can eat fairly normally.

On the list of important don'ts are coffee drinking or use of any of the caffeine-containing beverages, smoking and alcohol.

Several years ago a mole on the corner of my mouth got sore and swollen, I could move the hairs around that grew in the mole. I cut them level with the mole. It stayed sore so I pulled them out. The swelling went down and it quit being sore. So as they grew from then on I cut them level with the mole and I never had any more trouble until now. It has gotten sore again, Each time the hair was fretered. Could you advise me as to what causes this and the best flding to do? Is it wrong to pull them out?

Get to a doctor as quickly as you can have him look at that mole. If your description is correct I think you should have it removed surgically.

Anyone who has a mole anywhere that changes in any form whatsoever should run, not walk to the doctor. The danger is malignant melanoma - a particularly nasty type of cancer that is not easily cured. If you wait too long, it can'be be cured at all.

While you may have had just an infected hair follicle, there is no way you can be sure. The constant Irritation you have from the mole is dangerous. Any mole that is irritated by shaving, a belt strap, a bra strap or in any way should be removed.

There has been more than one person who went to see the doctor when a change in mole was noted because of my earlier columns on this problem. And the prompt action of these readers has saved . lives. I can't emphasize too strongly to all that any change in size, shape, color or whatever of a mole may be your only warning and you should not ignore it for a day, a week or a month if you want the best chance of survivat.

Gifts that are fitting for hospital patient

Dear Dorothy: I've developed a kind of block about what to send friends who wind up in the hospital. They're usually swamped with all kinds of flowers and plants. You must hear things about the kind of gift that "rings a bell."-Louise Tobin.

You can bring or send anything that doesn't take up too much room - note paper, cologne, bath oil, nightgowns, bed jackets, bath powder, scarves, books. Remember, that certain plants can be replanted in one's garden. One year I got some lovely mum plants which did beautifully in our back yard. But don't ever do what one little girl did. She brought her mother a turtle so she wouldn't be lonesome. A couple of days later it was missing and that began a commotion that swept the floor, one patient in near panic, thinking it might be a giant snapper. The poor little turtle was found, hiding in a corner,

Dear Dorothy: Someone told me the following simple way to fix the proper amount of bread crumbs to cover a casserole dish. Put the dry cubes in a glass measuring cup and then use a glass just a little smaller in size as a postle to crush the crumbs to the texture wanted It's easy to tell from the graduations on the measuring cup when there is enough.-Marina Ousley

Dear Dorothy. There must be a way to keep soapy accumulations from messing up shower doors. But what?-Fred Conyers

The best way is not let it accumulate. One friend keeps a nylon net scrubber handy and gives the door a wipe-off every thime she takes a shower. To clean it off, the liquid detergent containing ammonla or the one with grease-cutting solvent will do the job fine But, as said, the eastest way of all is to take care of it at the

Winter driving needs good visibility

Safe driving is always serious business, but especially during winter.

Regular tune-ups, fresh anti-freeze, good tires and reliable brakes are important and require all the attention possible, but few of us give any serious thought to good visibility.

The key to good winter visibility can be summed up in four words: see and be seen. A driver's ability to see and be seen is always crucial, but especially during winter when it gets dark early and stays dark later in the morning.

Here are a few visibility checks most safety-minded drivers should make before snow, sleet and freezing weather sets in:

• Windows - Probably the major requirement for safe winter driving is good visibility through the windshield, side and rear windows.

Wiper blades have one job: provide good visibility. There should be no smearing, chattering or skipping during wiper-to-glass action.

The life expectancy of even the fi-nest quality natural rubber blade is about six months whether used regularly or not, according to windshield

To help improve winter visibility, the windshield wiper industry has devloped a flexible rubber jacket for regular wiper blades that it calls "snow blades." Ice will not adhere to the snow blade and the rubber jacket stays flexible so it can effectively clean the windshield.

It is also a good idea never to switch on your wipers without first squirting washer fluid on the glass. This aids visibility and extends wiper

Buffalo Grove rules Rockford tourney

From Herald Wire Services

Bullalo Grove was seeded No 2 in the Rockford Boylan Hobday Baskethall Tournament, but coach Paul Grady's Bison werea't satisfied with being No. 2.

This year the Bison will settle for nothing less than No. 1

With four players scoring in double figures, led by 6-foot 8 all-state candidate Brian Allsmiller and guard Scott Groot, Buffalo Grove upset the tourney favorite East St. Louis Flyers, 70-57, Thursday night.

THE BISON jumped out to a 17-6

first-quarter lead and were never headed as Groot, a 6-0 senior, pumped in 12 of his team-high 18 points in the first half. Hitting mostly from right around the free throw circle, Groot loosened up the Flyer defense and gave Allsmiller a little room to maneuver laside.

Allsmiller, the northwest suburbs'

all-time leading scorer, hit for eight points in each half of play and finished the night with 16 points on eight field goals. Two of his baskets were stuff jobs, slammed through in midair after taking lob passes from Mike Ledna, Buffalo Grove's playmaking

Allsmiller was presented with a trophy after the game signifying him as the tourney's most valuable player. The big redhead, hobbled of late by painful shin splints, poured in 87 points in the four-game meet to give notice that his legs are on the mead.

Buffalo Grove, now 13-1, got 12 points from Fred Kruse and 10 more from Fred Heesch.

Esst St. Louis, from the tough Southwestern Conference, had beaten Mendel Catholic in one afternoon semifinal game while Buffalo Grove had disposed of Rockford Boylan in the other contest.

The Bullalo Grove success was the only one for area cagers in a long week of holiday basketball action. Prospect, which started the day Thursday with a shot at the Pontiac tourney title, fell to Weber in an afternoon semifinal game before dropping the third-place contest to Bloom of Prospect's chances for a third-place finish in the Pontiac tourney were dashed by a big Bloom quintet that took full advantage of its height on the offensive boards and romped to a 77-58 victory over the Knights Thursday evening.

Oak Park wins Arlington gym invite crown

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastics Editor

A favorite for the Illinois state gymnastics championship emerged from all the contenders at the Arlington Invitational Thursday night.

Getting three individual championships and rolling up 143 68 points, the Oak Park Huskies held off the other eight schools in the field in the first invitational of the year that measured true team strength.

All-arounder Troy Chovan, who won the P-Bars event with an 8.2 and medaled on side horse and high bar, led the Huskies to the prestigious title with the best all-around average in the meet: 7.80.

OAK PARK COACH Clark Shultes, who is in his ninth season at the Huskies' helm after pursuing a doctorate at the University of Tennessee last year, remarked, "There is no such thing as a driver's seat. But this sure as hell doesn't hurt.

"There's work to be done but three weeks ago I wouldn't have thought we could do this."

Oak Park nudged Addison Trail (141 14) for the team title while Proviso West (139.71) finished third, Mid-Suburban League representatives Elk Grove (123 28), Hersey (116.51) and Arlington (112.02) finished out of the running for a trophy.

Chovan's 72 on side horse and 825 on high bar helped him win the allaround title from Proviso West's Dan Smith, who followed with a 7.66. Hersey's Jim Huck took fifth in the all-

kickoffs and six punts and intercepts

SHULTES SAID OF his all-arounder, "The title rascal reminds me of a bulldog. He's the best competitor I've had in nine years.'

Oak Park is much more than just Chovan, however,

Harold Dardick tied for the event title on side horse with a 7.9 score; Martin Gonzolez took fifth on high bar at 7.7 and tied for fourth on P-Bars with a 7.6; still rings specialist John O'Toole tied for fourth on his event with an 8 15.

Perhaps the most telling indicator of Oak Park's team strength came on trampoline where sophomore Ron Propoggio stepped up to take second

"We have an awfully strong sophomore team," Shultes said, "that has hit 100 already. Dan Wunderlich (who filled in as varsity coach while Shultes was at Tennessee) does a great job with those kids

"THIS IS THE only meet Propoggio could have competed in and I think he did an excellent job."

Elk Grove's only medal of the evening was earned by Don Bosslet with an 82 on free ex that earned him

Hersey's Bob Solomon took the Huskies' only medal with 7.75 on trampoline that was good for fifth

Arlington, although they did not outscore their fellow MSL schools, picked up a pair of medals and one individual championship.

HICK MARZEC, THE Cardinals top P-Bars specialist, fired off a 7.6 routime to tie Gonzolez for fourth.

The still rings event belonged to Arlington senior Tom Staley as he scored an 865, his best of the season.

Addison Trail, who led for a portion tail throughout, was paced by allarounder Ron Ortman.

In addition to taking third in the allaround with a 7.14 average, Ortman also picked up medals on free ex (fourth at 795) and P-Bars (third at

The Blazers also got the trampoline championship from Kelly Crumley (8 45) and a tie for the side horse title from Bob Krause (7.9). Crumley (high bar, 84) and Dick Pechota (high bar, 7.8) also picked up medals for Addi-

Golden State whips Bulls

From Herald wire services

OAKLAND, Cabf - Rick Barry paced Golden State with 37 points as the Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating the Bulls, 124-106.

The Warriors controlled the game from the first quarter when they built a 13-point lead, which extended to 21 points in the second period. The Bulls cut the lead to 59-49 at the half.

Barry, who hit on 13 of 20 shots from the floor, equaled his highest scoring total of the season. Mickey Johnson led the Bulls with 19 points, and was followed by Artis Gilmore and Wilbur Holland, each collecting

The Golden State crowd of 12,586 saw the Bulls pull within seven points in the third quarter before the Warriors began to pull away again. With 2:35 left to play in the period, Golden State owned a 85-68 lead.

The Warriors extended that margin to as much as 28 points in the final

If you think 1976 was strange

Nothing is for sure, of course, but the New Year of 1977 in the frantic but fascinating world of sports just COLLD to something like this:

Jan. 5 - Rumor spreads in Pasadena that someone saw Minnesota's Bud Grant hold a smile for 10 seconds at breakfast, counteracting rumor Viking coach has been a victim of rigor mortis for 20 years

Jan. 6 - Twelve hundred reporters surround defensive back George Atkinson of Oakland to ask if he really is as mean as the media says. Atkinson patiently explains he doesn't pull the wings off butterflies, poison birds or keep rattlesnakes. He helps old lathes across the street, takes his hat off in elevators, but he admits to one little quirk - at the sight of a wide receiver he goes absolutely bananas.

Kentucky upends No. 2 Irish 102-78

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Seventh-ranked Kentucky blended the 30point shooting of Jack Givens with its vaunted inside power game Thursday night to crush previously unbeaten and second-ranked Notre Dame, 102-73, before a sellout crowd of nearly 17,000.

The lopsided result destroyed Notre Dame's hopes of taking over first place in the national rankings after top-ranked Michigan was upset by Providence Wednesday night.

Givens riddled the second-ranked Irish with his feathery shooting touch that produced 15 field goals in 17 attempts. It earned him nearly unanimous selection for the Ernle Shlvely Memorial Award as the game's most valuable player by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Rebounding from its first loss of the season, a 70-68 defeat by Utah, Kentucky dominated the game after breaking a 14-14 tie with nine straight points in the first half and improved its record

With Givens netting 20 points and Rick Robey and Jay Shidler 10 apiece. Kentucky stormed into a 53-32 lead at the half.

Robey finished the game with 18 points and Mike Phillips, Kentucky's other 6-10 giant, contributed 15, while Shidler hit 12 points apiece, Kentucky stormed into a 53-32 lead at the half.

Bruce Flowers and Toby Knight shared scoring honors for Notre Dame, now 7-1, with 14 points apiece. Dave Batton added 11 for the Irish, who had beaten highly regarded UCLA and Maryland in road games earlier this season.

Soviet hockey team rips WHA entry

HOUSTON - The Soviet Union's all-star Selecta team scored eight goals in the second period Tuesday night to rout the WHA's Houston Acroes, 10-1, before a sellout crowd of 15,302.

The win was the Russians' second against one loss in their eightgame exhibition against WHA teams.

The Soviets scored seven of their goals during an 0:07 span to break open the contest.

Viadimir Krikunov gave the Russians a 1-0 lead with an unassisted goal at 5:16 of the first period. Houston tied the game at 9:21 as Rich Preston speared a pass from Gordie Howe past goalie Vladislav Tretlak.

Sergi Babinov scored an unassisted goal against Ron Grahame on a power play at 2:19 of the second period to put the Russians ahead to stay.

Houston's Glenn Irwin was sent off for checking at 10:33 of the second period and Wayne Rutledge replaced Grahame in the Aeros net. The penalty ignited the Soviets as the Aeros repeatedly lost the puck on their end of the ice.

Viadimir Petrov and Aleksandr Gohkov each secred two goals for the Selecta.

Hlini drop one to St. John's, 56-52

HONOLULU - Guard Glen Williams scored 22 points Thursday, night to lead St. John's to a 56-52 victory over Illinois in the consolation round of the Rainbow Classic.

Hawaii met Arizona State for third place, followed by the University of San Francisco-Houston title match. George Johnson hit 15 points and Cecil Rellford 13 for the Redmen. The Illini were led by Audie Mathews with 18.

William & Mary, led by Matt Courage with 24 and John Lowenhaunt with 20, defeated Temple, 60-65, for seventh place in the Arizona demolished Southern Methodist, 117-85, Thursday night to boost the 13th-ranked Wildcats' record to 10-1.

Bob Elllott led a balanced scoring attack for Arizona with 27 points, Herman Harris added 18 with Jerome Gladney and Phil Taylor both scoring 13.

Joe Swedland paced SMU with 13. Pete Lodwick with 12 and Richard Harris with 11 were the only other Mustangs in double

Vikings' White wins rookie award

NEW YORK - Sammy White, the bullet-quick wide receiver who led the National Football Conference with 10 touchdown catches and helped the Minnesota Viklings into a record fourth Super Bowl, Thursday was named United Press International's 1976 NFC Rookle of the Year.

White, a 3-foot-11, 139-pound speedster from Grambling, teamed with quarterback Fran Tarkenton to form one of the most dangerous passing combinations in the league. Chuck Foreman, the running back earlier named as one the key factorsTN also credited White's presence as one of the key factors in his own success this year.

White, a second-round draft choice and only the second wide receiver taken in the draft, was a runaway winner, being named on 27 of the 42 ballots cast by UPI's panel, consisting of three writers from each conference city. Quarterback Jim Zorn of the expansion Seattle Seahawks finished second with nine votes while New Orleans running backs Chuck Muncle and Tony Galbreath and Detroit safety James Hunter got two votes each.

Minnesota carns tie on late goal

Ernie Hicke's second goal of the game Thursday night with 56 seconds left to play gave the Minnesota North Stars a 5-3 tie with the Montreal Canadiens.

Guy Lafleur scored his 29th and 30th goals of the year for the Canadiens and appeared to have scored the game-winner at 16:15 of the final period before Hicke's last-minute equalizer.

Laffeur's go-ahead goal came only 21 seconds after Minnesota had tied the score, 44, on Steve Jensen's second goal of the game. The Canadiens were trailing 3-1 at the start of the third period, but took a 4-3 lead on goals by Doug Rischrough, Bob Gainey and Rejean Houle. Dean Telafous scored the other Minnesota goal.

Richards wrestlers win another Palatine crown

Local fans hoping for a winner had a long time to wait at the Palatine Holiday Wrestling Tournament.

Their patience paid off, though, Conant's Matt Bello lorged a triumph in the last of the tourney's 312 bouts, solidifying a strong Cougar finish while taking some of the steam out of Richard's buildozing third straight team victory at the 22nd annual affair.

Coach Jim Cartwright and his Conant crew walked off with a third place trophy for their efforts at the two-day show. Heavyweight Bellow turned out to be the only one of three Cougar finalists to capture a blue ribbon but his teammates stirred up enough success in the lighter weight consolation brackets Thursday to push Conant past Addison Trail at the fin-

THE CHAMPIONSHIP performance by Richards came as no surprise, especially after they had boosted eight of their entries into the semifinals Wednesday and then advanced all but one of them into title combat Thursday afternoon.

The Bulldogs finished with 1844 points to 124 for runnerup Downers Grove North. Conant had 10714 and Addison Trail wound up with 99 while Fremd placed 12th with 49 points and the host Pirates were 14th with 3412. Bello was the only grappler to knock off Richards in the title round. He took Chuck Bemis down at 1:12 of the first period, rode him out in the

Cavs defeat Seattle in NBA action

In National Basketball Association action Thursday night, Cleveland defeated Seattle 105-100, Indiana collected a 104-97 victory agaginst New Orleans, Milwaukee beat Portland 127-107 and Denver controlled Detroit 123-106.

Seven players hit for double figures as Cleveland snapped a three-game losing straak despite a 42-point performance by Fred Brown of the Supersonles.

Brown, who hit 19 of 25 shots from the field, sparked Seattle to a 79-75 lead after three quarters, but the Cavs rallied and outscored the Sonles 20-6 in the first part of the second half.

Nate Thurmond, who equaled his season-high of 11 points, dropped in a hook shot as the Cavs tied the score at 81-81 and Campy Russell followed with a 20-footer that put Cleveland ahead to stay.

The Sonies cut the lead to 101-98 on a layup by Slick Watts with :28 left but Jimmy Cleamons dropped in a pair of foul shots for Cleveland and both teams exchanged baskets in the final 12 seconds.

Russell paced Cleveland with 17 points and Bobby Smith added 15 while Watts got 20 for Scattle.

At Indiana, Billy Knight pumped in points and Dan Roundfield Came off the bench with an injured wrist to add 25 as the Indiana Pacers spurted in the final minutes for their victory over the Jazz,

The Pacers, who had lost six of their seven preceding games, broke the final tie at 92-92 with about four minutes to play, then outscored the Jazz, 12-2, for a 10-point lead.

Pele Maravich, the NBA's leading scorer, netted 35 points for the Jazz but none of their other players secred more than 15.

Knight hit to of his first 11 shots and 21 of his total 29 came in the first half. Three other Pacers hit 10 points apiece.

At Milwaukee, Junior Bridgeman scored 24 points and Bob Dandridge 18 to lead the Bucks to their fifth win in the last six games.

Portland center Bill Walton suffered a bruised right knee after playing only five minutes in the first quarter and underwent precautionary x-rays at a Milwaukee hospital after the game. Portland also played without Maurice Lucas and Dave Twardzik. Both were injured and dld not travel with the team.

Swen Nater and Quinn Buckner each had 15 points for Milwaukee while Johnnie Davis led Portland with 20 points. Wally Walker added 17 for Portland.

At Denver, David Thompson hit a game-high 29 points and carried the Nuggets to their victory over Detroit in the first game in NBA history in which brothers faced each other as opposing coaches.

The Nuggets are coached by Larry Brown while the Pistons' coach is Larry's older brother, Herb. Their mother, Ann Altern of Allendale, Fla., was in the audience. The game between the top two teams in the Midwest Division was played before a record home crowd of 17,868 lans.

The Nuggets, now 23-10 and holding a four-game lead over Detroit, had double-figure scoring from seven players. Forward Wille Wise scored 13 points while Jim Price and Byron Beck had 12 apiece.

Earlier Cougar Jon Gluck had fallen to another Bulidog, Jerry Keily, in the finals. Kelly, last year's 105 champ, pinned Gluck at 1:13.

Another first period Conant pin victim was Mike Weston at 167. Kirk Snedden stuck him at 1:29 in the title fray after Weston had edged out Fremd's Chris Scarton earlier in the day to reach the finals.

Conant's other hig point earners were Jim Nakashian with a fourth place finish at 90. Brian Bowers with a white consolation title at 119, Mike Walston with a red consolation crown at 132 and John Brennan with a fifth place windup at 138 along with Jack Kerr, who captured fifth at 185.

FREMD GOT A fifth place showing from Steve Miller at 98, a sixth from Jeff Penn at 132, a fourth from Bob Milligan at 138, a white consolation prize from Greg Leggett at 155 and a fourth.from Scarton.

Palatine was headed up by Mike Prima with a sixth at 98, Jeff Sheppard with a red consolation crown at 119. Jim Luzinski with a red consolution triumph at 167, Scott Santoro with a third at 185 and John Thompson with a red consolation verdict at heavyweight.

One of the bigger surprises in title competition was the absence of defending champs Jeff Cocco of Richards and Naperville's Steve Chirico. Both were knocked off in the semis, Cocco by Snedden and Chirico by Tony Scott of Rock Island.

Scott, like Snedden, dominated his championship 145-pound bout, erunching Marty Garkie of Quincy, 11-2.

At 98 pounds the title went to Pete Leonard of St. Charles by a 5-0-count over Steve Mueller of Iowa Grant. Bulldog Joe Fortuna grabbed the 105pound throne with a 5-3 decision over Tom Pawelko of the Blazers.

Ken Traylor of Richards toppled another defending champ - Len Gasca of Stagg - for the 119-pound championship, 4-2. Pat Kane of Naperville won with a pin over Jeff Northrup for 126-pound laurels.

Leroy Williams of Richards stopped Larry Clinton of Downers Grove 7-4 for top spot at 132 and teammate Marshall Batton edged Gary Dini of Addison Trail in the 138-pound title fight.

Pat Norton of Downers Grove dumped Joe Autello of Stagg 10-2 for top position at 155. The 185-nound crown went to Mike Bardel of Richards, a 10-4 victor over Stagg's Tom Guzler.

Bears, please call up Rams

long time was on a television game last week when Los Angeles was in desperate need of a quick touchdown, or any kind of touchdown, and Pat Haden wasn't doing the job for the Rams. The announcer pointed out that James Harris was on the sidelines warming up his arm and that he was anxious to get into the game. Harris is a good quarterback with a strong arm and he sure could help the Bears What made it even worse was that Ron Jaworski was also on the sidelines for the Rams. ### SALUTE TO FINKS

Chicago Bears' general manager Jim Finks deserves a hearty pat on the back and a special thank you from the city's sports fans for doing what he promised to do when he came to the Bears

He said he would turn them into a winner and a contender - not overnight but as speedily as possible. I think he's kept his promise and Bears fans should be thankful.

Next year should be the Bears' best season since 1961 and if things go

The saddest thing I've seen in a right the team could make the playoffs for the first time I wouldn't be surprised to see the Bears in the Super Bowl either next year or the year

SUPER FLOP COMING?

People are already talking about how the Super Bowl is going to be an exciting battle this year instead of the usual boring game it almost always turns out to be. Everybody figures with Fran Tarkenton and Kenny Stabler at quarterback, it should be a real barnburner. Well, I think that it will be the typical dull Super Bowl and here is why. When the pros get down to the nitty-gritty they always seem to play more conservative football. That's the way it always is, Bud Grant, for all that is written about the man, is just as conservative a coach as anyone. The only hope is that John Madden doesn't let the pressure of the but game affect him and let his Ralders play their usual wide-open, exciting brand of football,

'Tail is beginning to wag the dog'

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

AUSTIN, Tex - (NEA) Darrell Royal, a country boy from Hollis, Okla, coached the University of Texas football team for the last two decades without ever having a losing season. Now, abruptly, he has gult the sport which absorbed his life.

"I'll coach as long as I enjoy it," sald Darrell in a conversation in his panelled Texas Memorial Stadium Office earlier this year, "and there are more pluses than minuses," It's apparent, after 184 victories in his college coaching career, that the minuses have overcome, and so the reflections of Royal provide a valuable tapestry of a game that has provided an exotic pattern of sports sociology. College football is a peculiarly American manifestation of the educational system.

ROYAL HAS emerged as a critic as well as booster.

For instance, his basic thesis: Football doesn't build character, as coaches have always claimed. "Football is the type of game," he elucidates, "where by the elimination process the weak are eliminated. Those that are still standing, coaches we've built.' They neglect to say how many were weeded out in the process of getting a select few. YOU KEEP skimming the cream are prone to say, 'Hey, look what off the top It takes a different type person to play football than any other sport Not many people are meant to play football."

That make it sound elitist.

"It is," admits Royal, "in a way," Where does football fit into the American educational system?

"It's the cohesive that keeps a lot of people interested in the university. Whether it's right or wrong, a lot of people maintain their interest in football through the university and that interest points them in a direction that's more important than football. The Board of Regents meetings are always held on football weekends because that's when they can get people to come back and attend meetings.

"IN TIII! university, it's a release. These young kids have so much energy that's got to be released somewhere, and there's no better place than a Saturday afternoon or a Friday night on a college campus to let 'em all come and hoot and holler and raise hell and let off that steam."

But Royal has been depicted as an autocratic despot in this handling of a football squad, by a former player, Gary Shaw, in a book called "Meat on the floof," and accused of treating players as cattle.

"I think he's in the definite minority." says Royal, "and that minority has always been there. He got with a group of people who had the ability to put it into words. This negativism was there when I was playing, but no one would publish a book of that kind

"THAT'S TRUE OF your profession of journalism. I can see it with kids coming in for an interview. They really are looking for something bad. They have that chip on the shoulder. They've possibly been taught in journalism school that if you're complimentary, you're Homer Joe and you've been had, and everything can't be that good."

What is there that's bad about college football?

"Recruiting. There's a lot of hypoerisy and outright cheating. Some-times lack of ethics. The athletic scene may be getting too big. The tail is beginning to wag the dog Coaches who have won big get to feeling all powerful and that the university is in operation just so they can have a football team. They're going to call the shots to let the school know what they have to do to 'keep me and keep my program going '

He has advocated the polygraph for several years as a device for cleaning up the game. Lie detectors in an academic setting seem like a radical step.

shrugs Royal, "good, I would junk it. You're not trying to catch people that are cheating; you're trying to catch people that are lying. If they're going to cheat, they're going to lie, So you've got to catch the liar. "I'd like to see every college athletaren't you in today's society also dealing with a new breed of athlete?

"I think they still like discipline. I think they still like to be told what they can do and what they can't do. They like for you to be consistent. You can be consistently relaxed or consistently rigid and tough. But they know what to expect every day. They always have the freedom of dropping

"UNFORTUNATELY, some guys are driven from competitive athletics because of the approach of the coach. I think that's bad. I'm sure I've rubbed some boys wrong."

Will jinx be destroyed?

The finx that has plagued Chris Evert in two previous Chicago appearances is expected to be destroyed the week of Feb 7-13 when the 22-year-old Wimbledon and Forest Hills champlon returns to the Amphitheatre in quest of her first Virginia-Slims of Chicago singles title

Five Chicago championships have been decided since the Virginia Slims Circuit was organized by Billie Jean King, but neither the brilliant Mrs King nor the equally brilliant Crissie has succeeded in winning the crown five Chicago tournaments played since 1971 have been won by foreign participants - France's Fran-coise Durr in 1971, Australia's Margaret Court both in 1973 and 1975, Britain's Virginia Wade in 1974, and Australia's Evonne Goolagong in 1976.

But long-suffering tennis fans are likely to see an American crowned singles champion when the sixth Virgima Slims of Chicago event is held the second week in February. And the name most prominently mentioned is Chris Evert's

"Crissic is the greatest woman player in the world," said Jock Muler, tournament director. "If I were to post odds like Jimmy the Greek, I would have to make her a 4-1 favorite to win this year's Chicago tourna-

You don't start a poker game by throwing away a pair of aces in the hopes of hooking deuces and treys.

You don't start a golf tournament on a par-5 hole and pull out a nice safe 7-fron on the tee.

You don't bunt with the bases loaded and two men out.

You don't step back when you get the other guy on the ropes. And you don't start championship football games by going for a field goal from the 6-inch line of the other team. THE RAMS won't be in the Super Bowl again this year because that's precisely what they dld.

They put the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl - which they'll have to answer for - because they lacked the killer instinct. It was like Dempsey going to the jab after he had just floored his man, Ruth choking up, Jerry West passing off under the bas-

There is a thing in football called "The Book." The way football coaches treat it, you'd think it was found in the Dead Sea or graven in stone and given to Moses on Mt. Sinai or it's a testament compiled by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

THE "BOOK" says that when you drive down to the 6-inch line, you put some points on the board. And the Rams did. They put 7 on the board for Minnesota.

That, in fine, was the story of the Rams' loss of appearance money for Super Bowl XI.

The situation was this: The Rams, surprisingly superior in ground attack to the Minnesota Vikings, ground down to the Vikings' 6-inch line with 11:04 gone in the first quarter. Their first move, against the massed muscle of 2,000 pounds of Minnesota beef, was to give the ball to the smallest man on the field, if not the state, 175-pound Pat Haden. When this didn't work, they brought in their field goal kicker.

NOW, IF I were the Rams, on the basis of what I saw on that ice floe in

'The Book' buries Rams,

Jim Murray

Minnesota Sunday, the last guys in the world I would trust with the ball would be my kickers. It was like giving a cleaver to a baby.

The kick was not only blocked, it was run back 90 yards by Minnesota's Bobby Bryant for a touchdown. It was really a swing of 14 points - seven the Rams didn't get and seven the Vikings did.

The Rams looked like a guy chasing a bus the rest of the day.

In the first half, the Minnesota Vikings didn't have the ball often enough to tell what color it was. Every time they got it, it should have been giftwrapped and signed "From The Rams With Love." There was a blocked punt, a fumble and an interception. The Ram kickers seemed to think they had the rest of 1976 to get their kicks off.

PRETTY SOON, the score was Minnesota 17, Rams 0. Not even the German Army could spot the Minnesota Vikings 17 points and play catch-up.
Calling what happened to the Rams on the field goal which donated seven points to Minnesota a "bad break" is like calling what happened to the Titanic a traffic accident.

The Rams pretty clearly had the superior football team. I mean, the Vikings are so old, they creak. They've got the only genuine early American antique line in football history. Their right end is an heirfoom. Jim Marshall has been playing football since the ball was round. Carl Eller probably made one of the original Walter Camp's All-Americans.

Francis Asbury Tarkenton played like a guy with an arrow in his knee.

Two years ago, Francis played in the Super Bowl with an arm so sore he needed an airmail stamp for any pass over 6 feet. This year his celebrated scrambles are so unnoticeable he looks like the real Statue of Liberty.

STILL, THE RAMS played by The
Good Book, Like a good fundamentalist minister, they seek no deviation. I mean, Revelation says, "Thou shalt get thee a field goal on fourth-and-6-inches lest the forces of evil punish you for heresy." You have to have faith, like Jonah in the whale.

You examine the Rams' options on the Minnesota 6-inch line. Even if they don't make 6 inches, the Vikings have 99 yards and 30 inches to go against the Rams' defensive team, not its place-kick holder.

In the locker room afterward, coach Chuck Knox was not about to burn The Book. He defended the 6-inch field goal. "Hindsight," he noted, "is, always 20-20. When you drive all the way down there, you don't like to come away with the hole in the doughnut. We wanted to put some points on the board."

Well, of course, they succeeded.

Curiously, the Rams may have lost this game way back on Sept. 19 in a game against the Vikings which they tied. In that one, Knox noted, the Rams DID try for a touchdown from the 1. And were stopped by Minnesota. As The Good Book says, fire and brimstone engulf those who don't This time, he did what The Good

Book says - and look what happened to him. Not only that, but we're all being punished. With Minnesota in the DETROIT (UPI) - Bob Lamer, up-set at the increasing amount of dissension evident on the Detroit Pistons, has said he just might follow Dave Cowens' cue and take an extended leave of absence from basketball.

"I'm not saying it's any one player," Lanier said Thursday after a 120-111 victory over Portland in which he outscored Bill Walton 40-14 and grabbed 14 rebounds as well, "but us. as a unit, the players, the coaches and the trainer, have to get our stuff to-

"It's gotta be everybody trying to work it out together and get all this stuff off our backs. It's hard to play in all this turmoil and right now I'm really getting nervous.

"MY EYES are starting to twitch from just nerves anad right now I'm about at the point where I just might take a rest, you know, just like Cow-ens. I'm thinking about the same thing. That's how serious the situation

The Pistons, playing their best ball in a number of years, are currently in second place in the National Baskethall Association's Midwest Division with a 20-14 record, three games behand the Denver Nuggets.

However, the squad is loaded with many high-salaried athletes and Coach Herbie Brown has had trouble placating players with sufficient playing time to suit their egos. Earlier in the year, guard Kevin Porter demanded to be traded because he wasn't playing enough. When Porter finally worked his way into the starting lineup, Ralph Simpson, the man Porter replaced, issued demands for a trade. There have been other incidents as well,

THE 6-FOOT-11 Lanier, who is averaging 26.3 points a game, third best in the league behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Pete Maravich, is also miffed at the fact that he is not receiving recognition as a top pro center, as evidenced by his placing sixth in the latest fan voting for the All-Star

"Maybe I might just be overrating myself," he said, "Maybe I'm just an average center in this league. I just don't know. Maybe that's the key to it. Maybe that's the scale that everyone else put me on. I don't think I'm an average center. I think I'm one of the few good centers in this league. I don't see anyone heads over me. I don't know why I'm down in the All-Star voting, It's been bothering me for a week. I'm a professional, I have a lot of pride in myself. I like to be the cream of the crop. A lot of things are bothering me.

"No, I don't want to be traded. I just want the situation to get better and it'll take 14 guys to make the situation better."

Cross-country skiing site at Fox Lake Country Club

Ski fans and even those who have never whooshed downhill on a snowy slope are taking to a new sport that received a big boost during the 1976 Winter Olympics.

Cross country skling, a great way to enjoy the open land in winter, is inexpensive and easy to learn, according to John White, director of sports activities at Fox Lake Country Club which this season has turned its rolling hills into a series of carefully groomed trails for skiers.

Sixty persons from Chicago and uburbs, and southern Wisconsin came out the first day the ski season opened late in November. Many said they were turned off by the long lift lines and the high cost of downhill ski-

"IF YOU CAN walk, you can cross-country ski," explains White, who with the club's ski instructor, Jim Schroeder, learned cross-country ski techniques from Olympic coach, Sven "This is one activity that's only as tough as you make it," adds White, "A skier can proceed at his own speed on trails ranging from easy to difficult. Some beginners can get by without lessons, although by learning the basics from a professional, even a non-athletic person, of any age, can become an apt cross-country skier in just a few hours.

The Fox Lake Country Club offers group, semi-private and individual lessons at a cost ranging from $3.50 for weekend classes, limited to no more than 10 students, to private lessons at $10.

For beginners, the club presents one kilometer of relatively flat trails and four miles of challenging longer trails, with upfill and downfill slopes geared to intermediate and advanced skiers. An all day trail pass for persons with their own equipment is $1. Complete rental genr, including all new "TrakNoWax" skis, boots, bindings, and poles, and a trial pass is $6.

TO MAXIMIZE the pleasure of skiing. White suggests that skiers wear light layers of clothing that allow the arms to swing free. A down vest or ski jacket over a sweater and a turtleneck shirt provide for necessary arm mobility. Knickers are the best pant selection although jeans, corduroys and light wool slacks can be tucked into knee sox to prevent the pants from traling in the snow. A ski cap, gloves or mittens, and a thin pair of wool undersocks can also be worn.

Beginners can prepare themselves for cross-country skiing by doing about 20 minutes of stretching exercises for a couple of days prior to coming out to the club. "The toe touch is a good limberer and a squat and walk exercise is excellent for toning the thighs," White advises.

Hours for cross-country skiing are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekends. For trail conditions or instruction reservation call (312) 587-6414.

Northern Wisconsin bids to become winter kingpin

The Wisconsin Northwoods area. long one of the nation's finest summer vacationlands, is setting sights on becoming a growing major winter snowmobiling vacation center as well.

A delegation of 130 Northern Wisconsin businessmen and women met recently at Holiday Acres Resort near Rhinelander in a "Snowmobile Forum" to discuss a cooperative promotional program for developing the Northwoods area into a major winter fun center for snowmobilers, cross country skiers, and other outdoors snow and ice sports.

Representatives from area resorts, hotels, retallers, heavy industries, snowmobile clubs, county governments, and local Chambers of Co... merce attended the forum.

WARREN DAOUST, president of Bombardier Corp., United States distributor of Ski-Doo and Moto-Ski snowmobiles, led the agenda by volunteering Bombardier's communications resources to help promote the areaa.

"The snowmobile industry has grown so fast we have sometimes forgetten that fun and people are what snowmobiling is all about," said Daoust, "Now it's time to forget the 'nuts and bolts' and create a meccafor snowmobilers, just as Vail and Aspen. Colorado, have done for sklers "

The area surrounding Rhinelander

and Eagle River, with excellent resort facilities and many miles of groomed snowmobile trails, is an Ideal snowmobile vacation center, Daoust continued. "As partners with you in promoting the Northwoods area as a snowmobile vacation center, we see growth for our industry and hope to introduce more people into the spirit of snow-

HENRY FIOLA, marketing director of SnowGoer magazine, pointed out that snowmobiling is the third fastest growing sport in the US behind tennis and snow skiing, according to a recent survey conducted by the AC. Neilson Co. Additional facts cited by Fiola included:

• There are currently 9.2 million snowmobilers in the U.S., making the sport almost as popular as skiing, with 11.2 million enthusiasts:

. Two-thirds of these 92 million snowmobilers live within a 400-mile radius of Rhinelander:

· Snowmobilers offer an affluent market. According to a recent Snow-Goer survey, two-thirds of snowmobiling fans earn over $15,000 per

With more employers today offering three-week vacations after five years of service, said Fiola, many people elect to take one week of their vacation in winter.

Olympics offer top 1976 story

NEW YORK (UPI) - The excitement of the Olympic Games gave sports its No. 1 story in 1976.

That was the consensus of 25 UPI sports writers who participated in a survey of the year's sports events to determine a top 10.

They decided by a wide margin that the Montreal Olympics with their immense pageantry, Nadia Comaneci, Lasse Viren, the U.S. boxing team's achievements and numerous other events offered sports (ans the greatest spectacle of the year.

The Olympics were voted the No. 1 story by 23 writers with baseball's free agent "auction" rated No. 2 on the basis of 15 votes and the Pittsburgh Steelers' second straight Super Bowl triumph No. 3 on the strength of

Ask Andy

Vulture an uncaring record setter

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearhook of Science and the l'uture to Diane Reitz, 9, of Allentown, Pau for her question:

HOW HIGH IN THE SKY CAN A BIRD PLY?

Honest-to gosh records are hard to come by in the animal kingdom. Many of our feathered, furred or finned friends just don't give a hoot about who is best in whatever category. As long as they can go fast enough, far enough, high enough or deep enough to get the job done, they are satisfied. Needless to say, man is a curious creature with a penchant for statistics. Whenever he happens to get a new animal record, it is duly noted

Scientists that know about birds are somewhat hesitant to tell us exactly how high a bird can fly. This is easy enough to understand when you realize how difficult it is to gather exact information. For example, if 200 are standing at the top of a 5,000-foot mountain and you see a bird flying overhead, it is still necessary to estimate just how high overhead it

One of the best ways to gather information about the heights birds reach is to fly alongside them in an airplane Scientists have done this on many occasions and have found that most birds fly at less than

HAUSSELS IS A REAL CHALLENGE

300 feet. However, the high fliers soar at altitudes much greater than this.

Until recently the Alpine chough was rated as the genuine altitude champ of the bird world. These sassy fellows live among the lofty peaks of the Himalaya Mountains and often have been reported at altitudes of 27,000 feet or more.

Relatives of the crow, jackdaw and raven, the Alpine chough delights in daredevil acrobatics that astound even the most avid birdwatcher. It is a crowsize blackish bird which enjoys life to the fullest in the rarefied air of its mountain home.

In November 1973, the Alpine-Chough was knocked out of the record books by another super-soarer. At an altitude of 37,000 feet, a commercial jetliner over the coast of West Africa had a run-in with a mysterious unidentified flying object. The UFO was later identified, by its feathers, as a vulture - Ruppel's griffon, to be exact - and a new bird altitude record was placed on the books.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Don Wiebe, 12, of Holling Mendows, for his question:

PLEASE EXPLAIN INCUBATOR HATCHING OF CHICKEN EGGS.

Most baby chickens purchased by farmers come from large hatcheries. The eggs are placed in incubators which provide the right temperature and humidity for the chick to develop properly. A constant temperature of from 99.5 degrees F. to 100 degrees F. is considered best, and a system of fans circulates warm air through the egg chamber over

Chicken eggs need about 21 days to develop. During this time special devices in the incubator turn the eggs several times each day, the relative humidity is kept at about 60 per cent and the oxygen level is kept at 21 per cent — the normal level of outside

Up to 100,000 eggs can be held in large incubators. and some hatcheries can hatch up to a million eggs at one time.

'Who' Who' makes debut

'Happy Days' to face CBS newsy competitor

BY JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - Those people for whom 'Happy Days' is bad news. and who decline to double date with "Laverne and Shirley," will have a new - and news) - alternative in the new year

CBS is betting there are enough viewers who are turned off by the Fonz and friends to give its new ' Who's Who" a respectable rating on the 78 pm Tuesday night slot starting Jan 4 "Who's Who" replaces "Tony Orlando and Dawn, ' and it will provide a culture shock to any Tony Orlando fans who tune in accidently and find Dan Rather and Barbara Howar

The format sounds like 'Son of 60 Minutes," and even CBS executives admit the shows are similar, but with a different focus

RATHER WILL be on air editor and chief reporter in addition to retaining his duties on "60 Minutes" Charles Kuralt will contribute his delightful "On The Road' pieces, which no long-er will grace the Cronkite news Washington author and personality Barbara Howar will complete the reportorial team

CBS is playing her down before the show's debut to avoid another overpublicized frasco such as the one that sank Sally Quinn in the morning a few years ago

Don Hewitt executive producer and originator of '60 Minutes," will be exec producer of 'Who's Who" and Grace Diekhaus, formerly a producer on the '60 Minutes" staff, will be its senior producer

The show will not follow a hard and fast format, but generally will be divided into three segments of approxlmately 15 minutes

"IT'S A MATTER of focus," Rather said just before the showing of a 15minute Rather interview in London with Leopold Stokowski, 94 and stiff conducting strong 'It's an hour news magazine built around strong charac-

He said the news angle would dominate, as it does on '60 Minutes," and that the show would not allow the 'personality" interview to dominate Even for the Stokowski piece, Rather went to a couple of experts to evaluate the maestro's performance

The show also will include a feedback device, although not the "Letters to the Editor" approach of '60 Minutes" Instead it will encourage viewers to contribute questions to a question and answer format, Diekhaus

ABC keeps its hold on first place

NLW YORK (UPI) - The 1076 half of the new television sca on his been as jumbled as it has been juggled while the networks vied for rating points on the Nielsen charts

When the season opened in Septemher and the Nielsen ratings came in for the week ending Sept 26 ABC was in first place NBC in second and CBS in last. That was turning tradition around because CBS had held a virtual strangichold on the top spot, while ABC had been just as firm a hold on the bottom of the list

As ABC held on week after week it became obvious this was no fluke with 'Happy Days' its spinoff, 'Lar-verne and Shirles' and the new Charlle's Angels" most often in the top spot STATISTICS FROM the A C Nielsen Co covering the 14 weeks through Dec 26 show that ABC carned a 20.7 rating and a 31.1 share. NBC has no 19 Lorating and a 30-9 share while CBS has an 185 rating and a 216 share

There has been talk that the old favorites on CBS are getting too creaky to survive particularly since the emphasis these days is on the very young audience MASH" and 'All in the Family" and an occasional 'Waltons" have been the CBS regulars among the top 10, with the amazing 60 Minutes" poppling into the top 20 and this past week ranking ninth

To really complicate matters the networks have been "frontloading," juggling 'blockbusters" and "special event programming ' to make the figures even fuzzier to read

"Front loading" means loading the schedule in the early part of the season with movies and specials most likely to pull the audience away from the competition's regular schedule. The 'blockbuster' means running a high audience appeal movie or speclal again to steal the opposition's authence and "special event" programming can mean anything from the World Series to Gone With The

'Award-winning' TV year begins with show Jan. 16

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) - The New Year will hardly have begun when television loses the first of a seemingly endless string of award

On Jan 16 CBS airs the seventh annual 'Entertainer of the Year

Yet to come are the Oscars, Emmys, Tonys, Golden Globes, Peoples' Choice, PATSYs, Grammy, and Country Music, not to forget a variety of bakeoffs and sports awards FOR THE THIRD straight year

Jackie Gleason is master of ceremonies of the Entertainer of the Year show, which beams from Las Vevas Winners are selected by the American Guild of Variety Artists AGVA's 8,000 members across the country vote for the best nightclub or concert perfor-

The statuette, like most popular awards, has a nickname - the Georgie It was named in honor of George M Cohan, the legendary Broadway song and dance man This show spares viewers the anguish of suspense The champion of champions this year is Johnny Carson, voted "Entertainer of the Year PREVIOUS GRAND prize winners were Liza Minnelli, Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr , Ben Vereen and

Bob Hope, who has won twice Voted best comedian and comedienne for 1976 are David Brenner and Nancy Walker, although one cannot recall when Miss Walker last played a club date or concert.

' Yeah, well, nobody's perfect," said

Gleason, the Great One "But I don't make the rules. Come to think of it, I don't even know what the rules are ' Best male and female vocalist awards will go to Barry Manilow and Edye Gorme

They ought to give the award to Edye every year " Gleason observed Best combination singer-dancer award was voted to Lola Falana The Captain and Tennille won the best vocal team honors

HM HENSON and the Muppets will collect the Georgie for the best novelty act

"You aren't going to believe who won the prize for best instrumental act," Gleason said "I gotta tell you it's Lawrence Welk" John Denver will come away with the best country singer award, another selection which pleases Gleason He was dumblounded by one award inner, Benji, for the best animal act Finally, a Georgie award will go to Edgar Bergen for being the most distinguished entertainer tinguished" is a euphemism for hanging in there over the years. So far no one under the age of 60 has been honored with this award

PAST WINNERS for dinstinguished service on the boards and is the spotlight were Lucille Ball. Duke Ellington, Benny Goodman, Jimmy Durante, Kate Smith and George

Gleason himself has never won a Georgie, but he came close in 1975

"You can't always tell what's going to happen on this show," Gleason recalled "Last year they gave the best comedian award to Paul Lynde Then he says, I m giving this thing to the best comedian' And he hands it to

"I didn't know what to do with it. And somehow it got lost in the shuffle '

Gleason may be the best thing about the Entertainer of the Year show He is effusive, relaxed and properly preverent about such things as awards He flew to Las Vegas from his home in Florida in a private jet aircraft, a surprising event in itself. For 25 years Gleason has professed a terror of being airborne "I have a confession" said the Great One 'I found out that if I said

I didn't fly I did 500 fewer benefits every year. So I let the legend grow about being afraid to fly Actually, I was a closet flier

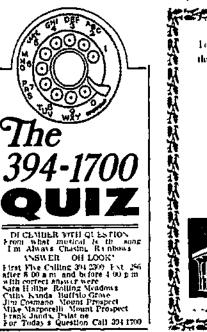

NEXT MARCH Jackie starts shooting a new dramatic television series of his own 'Panama Fargo' He plays a retired ad agency trouble shooter hving in Florida

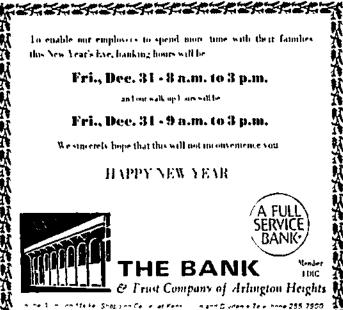

Fargo is a aifty dude who is intelligent has a drink now and then and could be considered a swinger Gleason said 'He's an intelligent man who manages to find a lot of trouble in retirement. There's plenty of action and intrigue "I ve done a lot of drama - The Hustler,' 'Requiem for a Heavyweight' and 'Gigot' And there was a certain amount of drama in 'The Honeymooners' and 'The Poor Soul.' I like the whole idea '

Tanker freed near Puerto Rico by United Press International

The Liberian tanker Daphne carrying 14 million gallons of crude oil was freed from a sandbar on the coast of Puerto Rico Thursday, but oil spills from three other Liberian tankers continued to foul the river waters of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Connecticut and the sea off Massachusetts.

The spate of five mishaps befalling Liberian-registered tankers in the past two weeks prompted a call from the nation's Environmental Protection Agency chief, Russell Train, for sterner restrictions on foreign tankers entering American ports.

The 31,000-ton Daphne was towed free at 4 a.m. Thursday from a sandbar in Guayanilla Bay on the southern coast of Puerto Rico after a barge had unloaded about 1.7 million gallons of oil to lighten the ship.

ALTHOUGH THERE was no immediate evidence of damage, the Daphne put out to sea for checks on its oil compartments. Coast Guard divers also went under its hull to make sure there was no leakage before allowing the ship into port to unload.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard said cleanup operations were proceeding rapidly on the Delaware River between New Jersey and Pennsylvania where 133,500 gallons spilled earlier this week when the Liberian tanker Olympic Games run aground.

Nearly 100,000 gallons of the Olympic Games' oil escaped pollution control booms and floated into the river, fouling beaches, tidal marshes and endangering wildlife with an oil slick that stretched at one point for 34 miles - as far as Delaware.

The Coast Guard sald after an aerial survey Thursday that the spill might be cleaned up today or Saturday. Already about 85,000 gallons of oil and water had been scooped up by vaeuum trucks.

THE LIGHTWEIGHT Arabian oil did less damage than originally feared to wildlife. Several thousand birds were entangled in the oil but only about 100 were found dead.

Lt. Cmdr. Richard E. Peyser, senior investigating officer for the Coast Guard in Philadelphia, postponed until Monday an inquiry into the Delaware River accident at the request of the Olympic Games' attorney, who said his preparations were delayed by the arrest of the captain.

Capt. Vassilios Vlisimas, a Greek national, was arrested Wednesday by federal officers and charged with violating two federal pollution control statutes. He was released shortly before midnight on $50,000 bail and ordered to appear in court Jan. 17 to answer misdemeanor charges of spilling oil and failing to notify the Coast Guard promptly.

• In Long Beach, Calif., a court of inquiry into the explosion of the Liberian tanker Sansinena Dec. 17, recessed until after Jan. 5.

. In New York, an Inquiry into the 7.6 million-gallon oil splil by the Liberlan Tanker Argo Merchant off Nantucket continued with testimony from second officer George Dedrinos that in two months on board he had never seen the ship steered by magnetic compass, only by gyrocompass.

• In Groton, Conn., Coast Guard officials said they expected to have the shoreline of the Thames River cleaned up by next week. About 2,000 gallons leaked from the Liberian tanker Oswego-Peace and hit a 3,600-foot section of Eastern Point Beach, an exclusive resort area.

Among the sterner restrictions on foreign tankers called for by EPA chief Train was a requirement that they have double bottoms before entering American ports to ensure against oil leakage should they run aground.

Scientists turn to space satellite to track oil spill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Barred by weather from visual tracking, scientists turned Thursday to a space satellite to follow the spread of the huge oil spill from the wrecked tanker Argo Merchant off Nantucket and chart the path of possible new leaks.

Officials said up to 1.3 million gailons of oil may still be aboard the ship, posing the threat of new spills in addition to the more than 6 million gallons that have spread up to 100 miles from where the tanker ran aground Dec. 15.

Scientists with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said a joint NOAA-Const Guard team will try to drop a radio transmitter bouy in the main oil slick Friday so the Nimbus research satellite can chart the position twice a day of the thick, black mass. IT IS THE FIRST time a satellite has been used for that purpose, they

Original efforts to track the spiil by plane have been thwarted on several instances by bad weather which prevented observations from the air and, on Thursday, by an engine failure that nearly caused the crash of a Coast Guard spotter plane as it tried to take off.

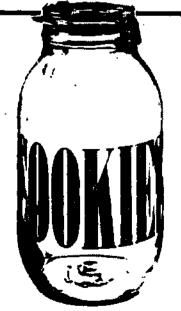

"We haven't been able to track it for three days," Jim Mattson, a NOAA scientist on the 15-man, jointagency Spilled Oil Research Team at Hyannis, Mass., said in a telephone interview.

'The most distinct advantage (of satellite tracking) is that it's independent of the weather."

tors into a fund to be used to pay claims. The fund would contain only the amount needed to pay for claims and would eliminate the overhead costs commercial insurance companies charge.

AMONG HOSPITAL administrators there is a feeling that, despite the headaches the malpractice crisis has brought and continues to pose for the future, the situation has become more manageable.

"I'm convinced the problem came from a variety of reasons," Malcom MacCoun, president of Northwest Community Hospital, says. "I think if it's getting better there are also a number of reasons for it.

"From our vantage point, we felt there was a lot that could be done through legislation. But because we're not lawyers maybe we have a viewpoint that can't be sustained," he says.

None of the four Northwest suburban hospitals ever has countersued a lawyer or a former patient. But administrators say they have, are and will continue to consider doing so. "We're in the business of taking care of patients, not filing lawsuits. and we're trying to do the best job we can. We're not looking for reprisals. We want to work with the court system to see that people's legitimate needs are met." MacCoun says.

LUTHERAN GENERAL'S executive vice president, Theodore Jacobsen, sees ducation in not only the health care community but also among the public as "the key way to go. We need a true understanding that everyone is a human being. Everybody has to do his best." "it's a social problem," says Loop attorney Russell Barone. "It's not something that's going to be solved by the medicine of legislation alone."

Sister M. Amata, president of Holy Family Hospital, believes there is less of a crisis atmosphere today. "I feel there is a lot of hope in the way some of the judges have reacted and possibly in the public willingness to talk things over.

Northwest Community's MacCoun shares that opinion.

"I guess I'm an optimist by nature," he says. "I feel a little less concern about the problem than I did a year ago. It's kind of like being in a storm where the rain is still falling and the wind is still blowing but things seem to be lightening up.

50 bus drivers get safety awards

It's not always easy to keep the bus on the road when it's full of boisterous children, but 50 bus drivers from Ritzenthaler Bus Lines, Inc., have managed to do it so well that they were honored recently at a series of safety luncheons.

The drivers, from the company's Arlington Heights and Wheeling ter-minals, were presented Safe Driver Awards certified by the National Safety Council according to the number of years they have driven safely.

From the Arlington Heights terminal, Allce Ward of Arlington Heights received a 15-year award, while Leonard Brown, also of Arlington Heights, received a 12-year award.

MELVIN SCHWARTZ and Maria Utley of Des Plaines were presented 10year awards. Lou Turner and Shirley Taylor of Arlington Heights received awards for eight years of safe driv-

Those receiving six-year awards were Yvanne Blomquist of Mount Prospect, Frank Zito of Elk Grove Village and Virginia Whitt of Arlington Heights. LaFayne Judson of Des Plaines received a five-year award. Ronald Ursin of Mount Prospect and Karen Prigge of Arlington Heights were given three-year awards, while Ralph Potts and Katherine Jasnoch of Arlington Heights, Judy Ivins of Buffalo Grove and Donald Whiting and Audrey Ford of Mount Prospect received two-year awards.

Ruby Sinclair of Rolling Meadows, Jeanne Weaver and Clarice Morrison of Mount Prospect and Loretto Wasmund and Eileen Haun of Arlington Heights were given one-year awards.

From the Wheeling terminal, Leroy Raupp of Buffalo Grove received an award for 16 years of safe driving. Leona Dyson of Wheeling received a 15-year award.

ANNETTE WEIDNER of Wheeling was given an 11-year award, while Larry Brooks of Wheeling and Larry Traub of Arlington Heights received six-year awards.

Five-year awards were given to Linda Catellier, Marilyn Lewis and Carol Switzer of Wheeling and Judith Fletcher and Joyce Duvall of Buffalo Grove. Carol Percox of Buffalo Grove and Florence Malin of Wheeling received four-year awards.

Ann Kraus, and Royce Percox of Buffalo Grove, Geraldine Novotny of Wheeling and James Scott of Mundelein received three-year awards. Twoyear awards were given to Lorrain Beidler, Sharon Hoffman and Judy Mies of Wheeling.

Receiving one-year safety awards were Micky Kubik of Arlington Heights; Pat Kase and Michael Nelles of Des Plaines; Ali Soltanmorad, Julie O'Connell, Jill Elenewski and James Hoffman of Wheeling; and Margaret Albrecht and Janice Russell of Buffalo Grove.

Townships sell wheel tax licenses

Cook County wheel tax licenses for cars registered in unincorporated areas will be sold at area township halls for the first time this year.

Formerly, licenses were sold only at the Cook County Treasurer's office, room 112, county building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago, and at three Cook County Sheriff's Police headquarters.

This year, county board member Ronald Larson, R-Merrionette Park, arranged with township officials to sell the licenses locally.

The license is $10 for vehicles with less than 35 horsepower and $15 for vehicles of 35 or more horsepower. The fee for truck licenses depends on th size of the vehicle and they must be purchased in Chicago.

Deadline for display of new 1977 licenses is Feb. 15, 1977. Senior citizens, 65 or older, are ena car they own. The following Northwest suburban townships will sell county vehicle licenses:

titled to a special license rate of $1 for

Palatine Township, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Schaumburg Township, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Wheeling Township, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SCHAUMBURG TOWNSHIP REAL ESTATE ASSESSMENTS FOR 1976

CHANGES IN NON-QUADRESMAL TOWNS OUTTOAL ASSESSMENT LIST

This publication list is the official notice to property owners of the 1976 changes in assessments of land and improvements in the Township of Schaumburg (for which 1976 is not a quadrennial reassessment year). The 1976 assessment of inges as published herein are those determined by the Assessor of Cook County.

1. AND VALL ATIONS
The land valuations as set forth are the 1976 appraised full values of land (reduced to appropriate assessment level required by the Cook County Board Ordinance) per front tool for all city and suburban lots or per square foot or per acre for industrial and farm lands. The determination of tall value of a rectangular lot is obtained by multiplying the first front foot value of the lot by the number of test frontage, modified by the shape, depth, corner or other influences which affect any individual lot or tract of

BUILDING VALUATIONS

Similar development of sound data and procedures were used in valuing buildings under the conditions as of January 1, 1976 Simplification of the rules and careful revision and application of unit building costs based on sound data, which included determination of reproduction foot (new) of different types of buildings with allowance for age, condition and obsolescence produced equitable and uniform assessment of buildings of all classes. Some building values are partial assessments based on occupancy for a fraction of the year. They will be fully assessed for following years.

PROPERTY VALUES

the figures listed herein for the land and improvements are the assessed full values of such property as of January 1, 1976, as determined by the assessor of Cook County (reduced to the appropriate assessment level required by the Cook County Board ordinance).

It is the duty of the assessor to assess all taxable propon a uniform bases of valuation so that the assessed tull values of the various properties are a just and equal assessment of such properties according to law. The assessment roll recording the values of property determines only the distribution of the total fax load among the individual property owners. The assessor of Cook County has no control over the amount of laxes levied, nor the public amount of tax bill. The established tax rate does that The assessor does not make the rate. He merely ands the value of the property.

PERMANENT REAL ESTATE INDEX NUMBER

The permanent real estate index number system was designed for the purpose of simplifying the very complex assessing, tax collecting and tax distribution problems in Cook County, Hinors, In this system areas and sub-areas are established Generally, areas substitute for townships and sub-areas represent sections. These sub-areas are divided into blocks, as follows:

Blocks 100 to 199 are located in N.W. quarter Blocks 250 to 299 are located in N.E. quarter Blocks 309 to 399 are located in S.W. quarter Blocks 400 to 400 are located in S.E. quarter

INFORMATION ON ASSESSMENTS.

Any property owner who has any question in regard to the assessment of his property should inquire at the office of the assessor of Cook County, Room 312, in the County Building, Clark, Washington and Randolph Streets, Chicago Information of the above, as well as the general basis and methods of determining the assessment of the land and improvements thereon will be turnished without

The increase in cigaret smoking is expected to continue.

The Agriculture Dept. in its latest report on the tobacco industry. Thursday said Americans smoked 620 bilhon cigarets in 1976, almost 13 billion more than 1975 and 84 billion more than 1970 despite efforts to publicize the health hazard in elgaret smoking.

The department said higher incomes and the growth in the adult population account for the increase.

THIS YEAR'S output of chewing tobacco was estimated at 84 million pounds, up from less than 80 million two years ago. The production of snuff tobacco remained unchanged.

Production and consumption of small and large cigars as well as pipe tobacco decreased. Consumption of large cigars fell from 8.2 billion in crease on 1974 and a gain of almost 1

"With further gains expected next year in population and consumer spending, elgaret consumption and output may rise further," the department said. It said the trend toward low-tar, low-nicotine eigarets is expected to continue.

THE REPORT estimated more than 3.5 trillion cigarets were smoked around the world-in 1975, a slight in-

1970 to just more than 5.3 billion this - trillion more than the 1960-1964 yearly

America's eigaret production in 1976 will reach an estimated 780 billion, of which 62 billion were for export. About 10 billion went to U.S. servicemen overseas.

The main importers of American cigarets, in order of quantity, are Belghim-Luxembourg, Hong Kong, Netherland Antilles, Japan, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, Canary Island, Syria, Lebanon and Panama.

Illinois legislators, facing the wrath of hundreds of insurance-gouged physicians, set out more than a year ago to cure the malpractice crisis. Springfield was the operating site: state representatives and senators the surgeons: the maindy was malpractice and the harried family the Illinois

State Medical Society. BY LATE 1973, three major treatments were developed. One set a $500,000 maximum claim limit on malpractice suits, a second established a screening panel of experts to review suits and a third set a two-year statute of limitations between the time an covered and the time the suit was filed.

The prognosis appeared good until earlier this year when the first two provisions of the law were declared unconstitutional. Another sensitive issue developed because State Rep. Gerald W. Shea., D-Riverside, then House majority leader, had sponsored the malpractice legislation at a time when he represented the Illinois State

The legislative move to deal with the malpractice problem has been viewed as a positive effort by some and an unnecessary undertaking by

practice controversy was "not only an over-reaction, it was a non-thinking attempt to emasculate the rights of the people because of successful pressures from the medical community,' he says.

Legislators, however, believe that while government action may not be the only way to solve the problem, it is at least one valid course to pursue.

"I think the legislature is satisfied generally with what it did last fall and is now taking a wait and see atti-tude," says State Rep. Eugene tude." Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. "I think the legislature did as much as it could with respect to the crisis. I think it is now up to the doctors and insurance companies to clean their own houses, and I think that will solve the malpractice crisis."

STATE SEN. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, sponsored the malprac-tice legislation in the Illinois Senate. He thinks Springfield's role in the controversy will continue, even though he believes the legislature cannot accomplish everything.

"I envision additional bills being introduced." He says, "I think we'll go back to the drawing board, because I don't think the problem has disappeared and I don't think legislation is the total answer."

Glass says several new proposals have been raised, including limiting an attorney's contingency fees and establishing a patient compensation fund to pay for legitimate claims.

The fund proposal has come from State Rep. Lee A. Daniels, R-Elmhurst, and is patterned after a program in Wisconsin. It would provide for optional contributions by doc-

16 hospitalized with paralysis

Health officials in Illinois Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a form of temporary paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu limmunization shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said. Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the flu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

Remove civil service protection

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their Jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection, See. Michael Howlett said Thursday. A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to join him in ordering the emploves back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial retesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require

Police, citing lack of evidence. Thursday released their prime suspect in the car-hombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office, Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson, sald the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 23 hours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence on which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickerson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing, William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 a.m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M. Marshall ordered the re-lease of almost $48 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment and a third of the more than $85 mil-lion impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept. discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and

Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept, to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The suit was later transferred to Chleago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he malled them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor. Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, usued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to slate candidates for the general election

Klein said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials," "We'll fight against any more back-room deals," he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayer.

Explosives find sparks manhunt

The FBI began a nationwide search Thursday for a 24-year-old man who rented an apartment where Chicago police last month found bomb-making equipment believed to belong to the FALN, a Puerto Rican nationalist group. The FBI Wednesday issued a federal warrant for the arrest of Carlos Albert Torres for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and it directed FBI offices throughout the country to conduct an intensive manhunt for him.

Turres, wanted by police for violating federal arms laws, apparently fled Chicago after police on Nov. 3 found 211 sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, wires and explosive chemicals in the West Side apartment. Carl Shupe, supervisor of terrorist bombing activities for the FBI's Chicago office, said.

Interrogation fails

Urlacher moved to county jail

Thomas Urlacher, the only link police have to the whereabouts of missing Mount Prospect resident Barbara Glueckert, has been transferred to Cook County Jail after a second day of interrogation Thursday failed to gather information.

Urlacher, 24, of Algonquin Shores. refused to speak with Kane County Sheriff's officials and representatives of the Kane County state's attorney's office during lengthy interviews with law enforcement personnel Thursday. Kane County officials withdrew their charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against Urlacher, who was transferred to Cook County Jail "where charges of contributing to the delinquency of a mi-nor are still pending," a sheriff's spokesman said.

NO REASON has been given for the dropped charges, which apparently were used to bring Urlacher into Kane County Wednesday night following a full day of interviews at the Mount Prospect Police Dept.

Kane County authorities failed to bring new charges against Urlacher as Cook County Assistant State's Atty. Terry Sullivan said they might Wednesday night.

Urlacher needs only $1,000 to post $ bail on a $10,000 bond for the contributing to the delinquency of a minor charge in Mount Prospect.

Kane County authorities were unavailable to comment on what occurred during interviews with Urlacher. The only information officially released was a 9 p.m. press release in which a Kane County Sheriff's spokesman told of Urlacher's transfer.

Urlacher was capteured by San Francisco police Monday after a letter he allegedly wrote referring to sexual and mental problems was given to authorities.

In the letter, Urlacher reportedly refers to putting a girl in the ground because he was afraid she would go to police and report be forced her into

16 hospitalized with paralysis

Health officials in Hilnols Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a form of temporary paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu immunization shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said.

Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the flu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

'Remove civil service protection'

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection, Sec. of State Michael Howlett sald Thursday. A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

flowlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to join him in ordering the em-ployes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial retesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require

Police, citing lack of evidence, Thursday released their prime suspect in the car-bombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office. Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson, said the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 23 hours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence on which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickerson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing. William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 a.m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M. Marshall ordered the re-lease of almost $48 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment and a third of the more than $85 million impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept. discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and Marsholl signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept. to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The suit was later transferred to Chicago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor. Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, issued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to slate candidates for the general election.

Klein said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials." "We'll fight aghinst any more back-room deals," he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayor."

Explosives find sparks manhunt

The FBI began a nationwide search Thursday for a 24-year-old man who rented an apartment where Chicago police last month found bomb-making equipment believed to belong to the FALN, a Puerto Rican nationalist group. The FBI Wednesday issued a fed-eral warrant for the arrest of Carlos Albert Torres for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and it directed FBI offices throughout the country to conduct an intensive manhunt for him.

Torres, wanted by police for violating federal arms laws, apparently fled Chicago after police on Nov. 3 found 211 sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, wires and explosive chemicals in the West Side apartment, Carl Shupe, supervisor of terrorist hombing activities for the FBI's Chicago office, said.

'Remove civil service protection'

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection, Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Thursday. A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to join him in ordering the em-ployes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial retesting Indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require court approval.

Suspect in bombing released

Police, citing lack of evidence, Thursday released their prime suspect in the car-bombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office. Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson, sald the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 23 hours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence on which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickerson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing, William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 a.m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M. Marshall ordered the re-lease of almost 548 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment and a third of the more than $85 million impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept. discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and

Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept. to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The suit was later transferred to Chicago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor, Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, issued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to slate candidates for the general election.

Kicin said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials," "We'll fight against any more back-room deals," he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayer."

Explosives find sparks manhunt

The FBI began a nationwide search Thursday for a 24-year-old man who rented an apartment where Chicago police last month found bomb-making equipment believed to belong to the FALN, a Puerto Rican nationalist group. The FBI Wednesday issued a fed-eral warrant for the arrest of Carlos Albert Torres for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and it directed FBI offices throughout the country to conduct an intensive manhunt for him.

Torres, wanted by police for violating federal arms laws, apparently fled Chicago after police on Nov. 3 found 211 sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, wires and explosive chemicals in the West Side apartment, Carl Shupe, supervisor of terrorist bombing activities for the FBI's Chicago office, said.

Mill Creek a move to the good life

Editor's note: This is the fifth in a series of articles about Bulfalo Grove's neighborhoods.

by JOHN N .FRANK

Dennis Harrison bought a home in the Mill Creek section of Buffalo Grove four years ago because "iffe in Mill Creek is pretty good.

"For the average homeowner it's a super place to live. The kids are very happy here and we've found it a good place to live," says Harrison, 1283 Mill Creek Dr.

"It was exactly what we wanted for the p.ice we wanted," says Vicky Pl-lut, 1117 Green Ridge Rd., discussing how she and her husband decided to purchase their Mill Creek home five

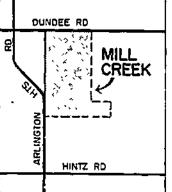

THE HOMES in the area, bounded by Mill Creek Drive, Arlington Heights, Dundee and Green Ridge roads, sold for between $35,000 and $48,000 when built by Miller Builders. They are now selling for double their original price.

Harrison has had eight neighbors in the three houses surroundeling his. The transient nature of the area's population sometimes affects the ability to make and keep close friends, resi-

"It's going to always have a certain effect. But if the individual has a will and determination he's going to make friends," Harrison says.

Mrs. Pilut says she's been fortunate in that none of her close friends has left the area. The transient nature of the community brings new talents and new personalities to the area.

Crime is almost unknown in the area, with burglaries being "very few and far between." Vandalism is a minor problem at best, Mrs. Pilut says.

"IT SEEMS like everyone respects everyone clse's property," she says. Part of the reason for the low crime rate is the abundance of police pa-

"I don't think there's a day that goes by that I don't see a police car patrol around here,' trols, Harrison says.

There is no park in the Mill Creek area, nor is there a community center for neighborhood youngsters. Harrison says both are needed.

"The attitude has been that a community center is just a gathering place for kids to get in trouble. It's actually an excellent vehicle for keeping them out of trouble," says Harrison, a father of four children ranging in age from 6 to 17.

"THERE'S NO place here to play. They (children) get to play in a reten-tion basin if it's not wet," Mrs. Pllut says. She also would like to see a park in the area, although she says there is really little open land to build

Schools are important to people living in the area, since most are in their 30s and have families.

"This is as good a school system as we've had yet," says Harrison, who also has fived in the southwest and southeastern portion of the country. "The elementary, junior high schools and high schools are far in advance of most of the schools in the country," says Harrison, of Dist. 21 and Dist. 214 schools.

The lack of a downtown and public transportation doesn't bother them, say Harrison and Mrs. Pilut, both members of two-car families.

One thing that does bother them is the high tax rate in Buffalo Grove. "That's one of the things you just have to live with if you're going to be a homeowner," Harrison says.

Legislative cure has ups, downs

Is the crisis over?

and KURT BAER Last of a series

It almost was a case of the operation succeeding and the patient dy-Illinois legislators, facing the wrath of hundreds of insurance-gouged physicians, set out more than a year ago to cure the malpractice crisis. Springfield was the operating site;

state representatives and senators the surgeons; the malady was malpractice and the harried family the Illinois State Medical Society.

BY LATE 1975, three major treatments were developed. One set a $500,000 maximum claim limit on malpractice suits, a second established a screening panel of experts to review suits and a third set a two-year statute of limitations between the time an alleged medical wrong was discovered and the time the suit was filed.

The prognosis appeared good until earlier this year when the first two provisions of the law were declared unconstitutional. Another sensitive issue developed because State Rep. Gerald W. Shea, D-Riverside, then House majority leader, had sponsored the malpractice legislation at a time when he represented the Illinois State

Medical Society. The legislative move to deal with the malpractice problem has been viewed as a positive effort by some and an unnecessary undertaking by

CIRCUIT COURT Judge David A. Canel, presiding judge of the malpractice division, is among the latter. The legal right to sue over professional negligence is a long standing one, he says. State statutes are not necessary to deal with the matter, be maintains. Attorney Philip Corboy agrees. Springfield's entrance into the malpractice controversy was "not only an over-reaction, it was a non-thinking attempt to emasculate the rights of the people because of successful pressures from the medical community,'

Legislators, however, believe that while government action may not be the only way to solve the problem, it is at least one valid course to pursue.

"I think the legislature is satisfied generally with what it did last fall and is now taking a wait and see atti-tude," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, "I think the legislature did as much as it could with respect to the crisis. I think it is now up to the doctors and insurance companies to clean their own houses, and I think that will solve the maloracuce crisis."

STATE SEN. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, sponsored the maipractice legislation in the Illinois Senate. He thinks Springfield's role in the controversy will continue, even though he believes the legislature cannot accomplish everything.

"I envision additional bills being introduced," he says, "I think we'll go back to the drawing board, because I don't think the problem has disappeared and I don't think legislation is the total answer."

Glass says several new proposals have been raised, including limiting an attorney's contingency fees and establishing a patient compensation fund to pay for legitumate claims.

The fund proposal has come from State Rep. Lee A. Daniels, R-Elmhurst, and is patterned after a program in Wisconsin. It would provide for optional contributions by doc-(Continued in Sect. 4, Page 4)

Urlacher, 24, of Algonquin Shores, refused to speak with Kane County Sheriff's officials and representatives of the Kane County state's attorney's office during lengthy interviews with law enforcement personnel Thursday.

Kane County officials withdrew their charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against Urlacher, who was transferred to Cook County Jail "where charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor are still pending," a sheriff's spokesman said.

NO REASON has been given for the dropped charges, which apparently were used to bring Urlacher into Kane County Wednesday night following a full day of interviews at the Mount Prospect Police Dept.

Kane County authorities failed to bring new charges against Urlacher as Cook County Assistant State's Atty. Terry Sullivan said they might Wednesday night.

Urlacher needs only $1,000 to post bail on a $10,000 band for the contributing to the delinquency of a minor

Kane County authorities were unavailable to comment on what occurred during interviews with Urlacher. The only information officially released was a 9 p.m. press release in which a Kane County Sheriff's spokesman told of Urlacher's transfer.

Urlacher was capteured by San Francisco police Monday after a letter he allegedly wrote referring to sexual and mental problems was given to authorities.

In the letter, Urlacher reportedly refers to putting a girl in the ground because he was afraid she would go to police and report he forced her into sexual relations.

4-year jail sentence given robber

A Des Plaines man Thursday was sentenced to four years and one day in prison following conviction of committing three armed robberies, a robbery and an attempted armed robbery of stores in Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Holfman Estates, and Arlington Heights.

Garippo said Jaffe was sentenced to four years and one day for each of the armed robberies, and to one year and one day for the attempted armed robbery and robbery offenses.

Garippo told Jaffe Thursday in court that if he commits any crimes before Jan. 7 or fails to appear on that date to enter prison, all sentences will revert to a consecutive sentence, meaning Jaffe must then serve more than 12 years behind bars.

Jaffe was arrested Sept. 4, 1974 by Mount Prospect Patrolman Thomas Daley, now liaison officer, who noticed Jaffe's car, parked in a dark section of the 7-Eleven Store lot at 1604 W. Golf Rd. The car matched the description of an auto used in a previous armed robbery.

AS THE JAFFE CAR, with no license plates and headlights off, attempted to leave the area, Daley pulled his squad car into the auto's path, blocking the exit.

Police removed a .45 caliber automatic pistol and several pieces of a disguise from the front seat of the Jaffe auto.

Township library seeks helpers

The financillay-strapped Schaumburg Township Public Library searching for ways to expand services without increasing costs - is seeking volunteer helpers.

"We (library staff) have lots of ideas and not much time," said Bonita Gill, head of public services. "We could do a lot more for our library if we could get this going."

With the program, volunteers would spend as little as two hours per week helping at the library on such jobs as delivering posters and fliers, giving slide shows, chaperoning on field trips and baby-sitting.

"It's basically a lot of leg work and a lot of library promotion." Mrs. Gill

THE ONLY REQUIREMENT is that the volunteers be "dependable," she said. Activities of the volunteers would vary depending on individual interests.

"You have to figure out the jobs that they want to do and the things you need done," Mrs. Gill said.

Library officials hope the volunteers also can take library services to senior citizens at Friendship Village and

Moon Lake Convalescent Center. In addition, Mrs. Gill said she hopes to attract young adults to form their own planning board and to publicize the library's programs at area

Illinois legislators, facing the wrath of hundreds of insurance-gouged physicians, set out more than a year ago to cure the malpractice crisis.

Springfield was the operating site; state representatives and senators the surgeons; the malady was malpractice and the harried family the Illinois State Medical Society.

Attorney Philip Corboy agrees. Springfield's entrance into the malpractice controversy was "not only an over-reaction, it was a non-thinking attempt to emosculate the rights of the people because of successful pressures from the medical community." he says.

Legislators, however, believe that while government action may not be the only way to solve the problem, it is at least one valid course to pursue.

"I think the legislature is satisfied generally with what it did last fall and is now taking a wait and see atti-tude," says State Ren. Funeno says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. "I think the legislature did as much as it could with respect to the crisis. I think it is now up to the doctors and insurance companies to clean their own houses, and I think that will solve the malpractice crisis."

STATE SEN. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, sponsored the malpractice legislation in the Illinois Senate. He thinks Springfield's role in the controversy will continue, even though he believe: the legislature cannot accomplish everything.
"I envision additional bills being introduced," he says, "I think we'll go back to the drawing board, because I don't think the problem has disappeared and I don't think legislation is the total answer."

Glass says several new proposals have been raised, including limiting an attorney's contingency fees and establishing a patient compensation fund to pay for legitimate claims.

16 hospitalized with paralysis

Health officials in Illinois Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Gulllain-Burre Syndrome, a form of temporary paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu immunization shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said.

Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the Ilu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

'Remove civil service protection'

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection, Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Thursday, A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to Join him in ordering the employes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial refesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require court approval.

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M Marshall ordered the re-lease of almost $48 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment and a third of the more than $85 milllon impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept. discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and promoting.

Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept. to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The sult was later transferred to Chicago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

Complicated tax forms in the mail

WASHII-GTON (UPI) - Income tax forms for 8t million Americans more complicated than ever - are being made ahead of expectations, the Internal Revenue Service said

Thursday.
In October, the IRS said the forms for 1976 would be sent in early January, a week to 10 days later than the 1975 forms were mailed. The delay was expected because of substantial changes resulting from the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

But an IRS spokesman sald problems in writing regulations and get-ting the forms printed were not as severe as expected.

"I GUESS WE were conservative in our estimates," he said.

Although most taxpayers have either received their forms or will receive them in a few days, the spokesman said about 8 million taxpayers will not get forms until the second week in January.

And an estimated 14 million taxpayers who have moved since filing last year will experience delays of a few days because of the normal forwarding difficulties.

IRS IS SENDING out 45 million long forms, the 1040, for higher income workers and those who itemize deductions. An estimated 36 million short forms, 1040A, will be mailed. The 1040A is primarily for students and other part-time and lower income people or those who take standard de-

The new law did cause a delay in processing forms for businesses and partnerships, the spokesman said, so most business forms will be mailed in real estate and other investments.

For example, in computing the gain or loss in value of securities for inheritance purposes, their worth on Dec. 31, 1976 will be the standard. Tax payers will also have to use original bills of sale for determining the base worth of other inherited items such as paintings, furniture and houses.

EVEN TAXPAYERS whose forms are prepared by accountants and other specialists will discover that better recordkeeping is required. The new law holds the tax preparer responsible, for the first time, for information filed on the return.

Other changes in the law will elimb nate most deductions for a spare room at home used for after-hours work. A few taxpayers, such as doctors, will be able to take that deduction provided the space is set aside for exclusive business purposes such as meeting patients or clients.

And taxpayers who rent vacation homes will be restricted in sheltering income through depreciation and operating expenses if they make personal use of the home for more than 14 days'a year.

There are other changes that will be outlined in the information packet that accompanies the 1040 forms.

The forms for taxpayers who itemize will be easier to read because of larger print, but more difficult to fill

THE SCENE AT the 2,000+1 Discotheque is a common one in the numerous taverns, bars and cocktail lounges lining Rand Road from Des Plaines north to Lake County, where free enterprise and competition abounds.

Some of the night spots are within a few hundred feet of each other along the six-mile stretch. Others are a block apart. But no matter what the har hopper's fancy, whether it be X-rated dancers, singles lounges or discotheques, there is something on Rand Road for every night life lover.

Most of the nearly 20 watering holes, from bars to combination restaurant-cocktail lounges are concentrated along Rand Road in unincorporated Cook County, And for the most part, they are licensed through com-mercial zoning ordinances to stay open until 2 a.m. during the week and a.m. on weekends.

Disco dance lessons, electronic games, pinhall, cartoons, movies and scantily-clad dancers - each offers its own gimmick to the nocturnal atmosphere. But the one thing they all share is the street name in their ad-

The Torch Club, near Palatine, and This 'N That, near Arlington Heights, bill themselves as the x-rated late night spots on the Rand Road strip.

AN AD FOR THE Torch Club proclaims that it provides the "upmost in X-rated-exotic dance stars." table sign outside This 'N That, which was the focal point of criticism by Arlington Heights officials earlier this year, boasts basically the same thing but with a triple X rating.

Late night entertainment includes sipping a drink and watching skimpily-attlired women go through the motions on stage. You can buy the dancers a drink between shows. But the police keep an eye on these places. A dancer and a waltress were arrested at the Torch Club in November for soliciting drinks - a violation of county law.

What is so attractive about Rand Road?

"It's a main drag," said Todd Behrens, owner of O'Schwart's, a neighborhood-type tavern at Rand and Arlington Heights roads. "If you got traffic, you got business."

Leslie Goldsmith, owner of Sliver Fox Disco and Lounge inside A A. K. McKlutz's, 150 E. Rand Rd., Arlington

Heights, agreed with Behrens, saying, because there is no other safe place to "ft's a major thoroughfare and it hold the mug than above the head, catches a lot of traffic."

The location of Rick O'Chez Lounge, 1501 N. Rand Rd., is ideal, says its owner, Rick Smith. Drawing customers to his Rand Road establishment for just more than a year and a half. Smith said, "It's been instant business since day one."

A SIGN ON THE door reads "Proper Attire." Inside, Rick O'Chez pa-trons embrace intimately on the dance floor keeping time to the mellow music amplified from a neon jukebox. Between songs they grab a 'stiff one" ironically to loosen up for the next number. A quarter is stuffed inside the machine, the buttons are pushed and the music resumes with silhouettes forming against a reddish backdrop,

The more hard-core fun lover might visit O'Schwartz's for a quick thirst quencher and a game of foosball. Sitting on a stool at a counter bar, beneath a rotating clock in the shape of a beer keg, the O'Schwartz cutomer can watch television to the snontaneous accompaniment of a blaring rock 'n' roll soundtrack.

Just across the street at McKlutz's, a bar bum enters through the swinging saloon-typo doors and greets the waitress with a hug. Here, the game that keeps the taste buds thirsting for more is IQ Tester, a mindbusting and frustrating peg board place at each booth and table. The cash register can be heard ringing incessantly above the music and chatter as the bartender is hailed with a familiar, "I'll have another one." Down the block the disco dancers at 2,000+1 continue to sweat and sway while a standing room only crowd at The Big Kumquat, 1307 W. Rand Rd., watches a W. D. Fields classic and claps their hands to pulsating polkas and golden oldles. ANOTHER FUN AND frolic place to whet apetites for food and spirits is Butch McGuire's, 300 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. On a busy night, it is a great accomplishment just to squeeze past the bouncers at the door, Trying to worm through the crowd of wall-to-wall people and edge toward the bar for a drink, a beer shampoo is usually an added attraction at Butch's

Although some will walk out of a crowded place like Butch's as quickly as they enter, it's all part of the bar happy craze. Conversations range from the weather to football. Music ranges from ballroom dance tunes to rock 'n' roll. Drinks range from a beer on tap to a tequila sunrise.

And rarely is there a frown on the face of a Rand Road bar freak.

FOOD & SPIRITS, like those offered at the Big Kumquat near Prospect Heights, are plentiful in bars, discotheques and lounges lining Rand Road from Mount Prospect to Palatine.

Some bars close tonight to avoid crowd

Although Rand Road is a drinker's haven throughout the year, the larger bars on the strip - The Big Kumquat, Butch McGulre's and Gatsby's - will be closed tonight, New Year's Eve, The reason? The crowds are too row-

The day of the year when Imbihing is at its best will instead be a lucrative one for Rand Road restaurateurs offering, by reservation, dinner packages including live entertainment for welcoming 1977.

"It's too much trouble to be open," sald John Bates, manager of The Blg Kumquat. "We tried to run it with reservations but we didn't get any. You can't just open it to the public because you get all the scum everyone else won't let in. All the amateurs are out. It's a lot of trouble. You've got to have reservations."

Greg Edward, manager of Butch McGuire's, said he likes to give his employes the day off so they can enjoy the holiday. Edward said New Year's crowds are known to be rowdy and he does not want to be bothered with problems from unruly custom-

Gatsby's will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. but will close its doors as Jan. 1 approaches. Their clientele basically is college students, said a Gatsby's employe. "They're so aggravating on the weekends," she said,

"we don't think we can take it New Year's Eve." Among late night spots along Rand

Road remaining open to celebrate the new year are Rick O'Chez Lounge, 1501 N. Rand Rd.; the Silver Fox Discotheque and Lounge in A. K. McKlutz's, 150 East Rand Road; O'Schwartz's Tavern, Arlington Heights and Rand roads; and 2,000+1 Discotheque, 1326 W. Rand Rd.

Most bars open to the public will provide complimentary champagne at midnight and festivities complete with party hats and favors.

There will be a $5 cover charge at 2,000+1, entitling customers to a buffet dinner. Drinks will be sold at regular charges.

16 hospitalized with paralysis

flealth officials in Illinois Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a form of temporary paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu immunization shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said.

Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the flu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

'Remove civil service protection'

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection, Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Thursday, A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to join him in ordering the employes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial retesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require court approval.

Suspect in bombing released

Police, citing lack of evidence, Thursday released their prime suspect in the car-bombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office. Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson, said the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 23 hours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence on which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickerson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing. William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 a.m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice M. Marshall ordered the release of almost $48 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept. to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The suit was later transferred to Chicago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor. Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, issued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to slate candidates for the general election.

Klein said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials." "We'll fight against any more back-room deals." he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayor."

Kane County authorities failed to bring new charges against Urlacher as Cook County Assistant State's Atty. Terry Sullivan said they might Wednesday night.

The increase in cigaret smoking is expected to continue

The Agriculture Dept. in its latest report on the tobacco industry. Thursday said Americans smoked 620 billion cigarets in 1976, almost 13 billion more than 1973 and 84 billion more than 1970 despite efforts to publicize the health hazard in eigaret smoking The department said higher incomes and the growth in the adult population account for the increase

THIS YEAR'S output of chewing tobacco was estimated at 84 million pounds, up from less than 80 million two years ago. The production of shulf tobacco remained unchanged.

Production and consumption of small and large cigars as well as pipe tobacco decreased Consumption of large cigars fell from 82 billion in 1970 to just more than 5.3 billion this - trillion more than the 1960-1964 yearly

"With further gains expected next year in population and consumer spending, eigaret consumption and output may rise further," the department said It said the trend toward low-tar, low-nicotine eigarets is expected to continue.

America's eigaret production in 1976 will reach an estimated 700 billion, of which 62 billion were for export About 10 billion went to US service men overseas.

The main importers of American cigarets, in order of quantity, are Belgium-Luxembourg, Hong Kong, Netherland Antilles, Japan, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates. Canary Island, Syria, Lebanon and Panama

The prognosis appeared good until earlier this year when the first two provisions of the law were declared unconstitutional Another sensitive issue developed because State Rep. Gerald W. Shea. The legislative move to deal with the malpractice problem has been viewed as a positive effort by some and an unnecessary undertaking by

CIRCUIT COURT Judge David A Canel, presiding judge of the malpractice division, is among the latter. The legal right to sue over professional negligence is a long standing one, he says. State statutes are not necessary

Attorney Philip Corboy agrees Springfield's entrance into the malpractice controversy was "not only an over-reaction, it was a non-thinking attempt to emasculate the rights of the people because of successful pressures from the medical community," he says

Legislators, however, believe that while government action may not be the only way to solve the problem, it is at least one valid course to pursue

"I think the legislature is satisfied generally with what it did last fall and is now taking a wait and see atti-tude." says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights think the legislature did as much as it could with respect to the crisis. I think it is now up to the doctors and insurance companies to clean their own houses, and I think that will solve the malpractice crisis."

STATE SEN. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, sponsored the malpractice legislation in the Illinois Senate He thinks Springfield's role in the controversy will continue, even though he believes the legislature cannot accomplish everything

"I envision additional bills being introduced," he says "I think we'll go back to the drawing board, because I don't think the problem has dis-appeared and I don't think legislation is the total answer

Glass says several new proposals have been raised, including limiting an attorney's contingency fees and establishing a patient compensation fund to pay for legitimate claims

16 hospitalized with paralysis

Health officials in Illinois Thursday said 16 persons in the state have been hospitalized with Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a form of temporary paralysis that has been lined with the swine flu immunization shots. Only four of the state's 16 victims had received swine flu shots, they said.

Nationwide, health officials said more than 170 cases have been reported and about half had been inoculated with the vaccine. Tho Center for Disease Control in Atlanta Wednesday announced the existence of a link between the paralysis and the flu shots and recommended that the embargo on the shots be continued indefinitely. The inoculation program was halted Dec. 16.

'Remove civil service protection'

The only effective way to let employes in the secretary of state's office keep their jobs without taking new civil service tests is for Gov. Daniel Walker to agree to remove them from civil service protection. Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Thursday. A court decision handed down earlier this month ordered about 2,000 workers placed under civil service protection.

Howlett asked Walker Nov. 17 to join him in ordering the employes back out of the state Personnel Code coverage, but the governor refused and the Illinois Dept. of Personnel then began administering examinations. Wednesday, however, Walker said results of initial refesting indicated many veteran empliyes could lose their jobs if forced to requalify through testing. He ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to seek another method which would be acceptable under terms of the court order but would not involve exams. Howlett said that proposed solution would require

Suspect in bombing released

Police, citing lack of evidence, Thursday released their prime suspect) in the car-bombing death of an employe of the Illinois Secretary of State's office. Springfield chief of detectives, James Dickerson said the suspect, who was not identified, was released about 23 itours after his arrest because there was not enough evidence ord which to base an arrest warrant.

But Dickertson said the person is still the department's major suspect and police will continue to investigate the case and try to gather enough evidence to arrest him for the bombing. William T. Hoskins, 29, was killed when the bomb, apparently a large pipe bomb planted under his car seat, exploded when he got in his car shortly before 7 [a.m. Wednesday.

$48 million in U.S. funds to Chicago

U.S. District Court Jucige Prentice M. Marshall ordered the release of almost $48 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the city of Chicago, court records showed Thursday. The money, which the city expects to receive next Wednesday, includes Chicago's regular quarterly payment land a third of the more than $85 mil-ilon impounded in 1974 after the judge ruled the Chicago Police Dept. discriminated against women and minorities in hiring and

Marshall signed the order last Thursday requiring the Treasury Dept. to release the money. The revenue sharing payments were frozen by a federal court judge in Washington D.C., in a suit filed there by the Afro-American (police) Patrolmen's League. The sult was later transferred to Calcago. In the past, Marshall called attorneys into court to announce the release of the revenue sharing funds. Last week, however, he mailed them the decision.

IVI to sue for mayoral primary

The Independent Voters of Illinois Thursday threatened to go to court to assure a primary election next year prior to the special election of a new Chicago mayor. Steven N. Klein, IVI state chairman, issued the threat in response to published reports that some City Council leaders plan to use a legal device to bypass a primary election and allow party organizations to siate candidates for the general election.

Klein said the "IVI believes that people, not power brokers, have a right to choose their elected officials." "We'll fight against any more back-room deals," he said. Klein said "the abolition of a primary election would be a slap in the face to the citizens of Chicago who want a voice in the selection of our next mayor."

Explosives find sparks manhunt

The FBI began a nationwide search Thursday for a 24-year-old man who rented an apartment where Chicago police last month found bomb-making equipment believed to belong to the FALN, a Puerto Rican nationalist group. The FBI Wednesday issued a federal warrant for the arrest of Carlos Albert Torres for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, and it directed FBI offices throughout the country to conduct an intensive manhunt for him.

Torres, wanted by police for violating federal arms laws, apparently fled Chicago after police on Nov. 3 found 211 sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, wires and explosive chemicals in the West Side apartment, Carl Shupe, supervisor of terrorist bombing activities for the FBI's Chicago office, said.
